

TRIGGER-HAPPY HUNTERS INVADE WATERSHED AREA

Mayor R. B. Wilson today appealed to hunters to stop invading Greater Victoria watershed property.

He made the appeal after learning so-called "sportsmen" had virtually invaded the watershed to hunt deer and some even dynamited a water board gate to get their vehicle into the Goldstream area.

A report from water board officials said publicity about a decision to authorize 100 hunters to enter the watershed next month to thin out deer had backfired.

Instead of waiting for appearance of an advertisement announcing opening of the list for hunters wishing to apply, a large number had "invaded" the west end of the watershed causing a series of minor property damage as well as illegally entering the watershed.

Mayor Wilson emphasized that hunters must wait for the advertisement, apply for the privilege and be tested by the metropolitan health board officials before they can be allowed to enter the watershed.

De Gaulle Faces Test As French Poll Forced

Gov't Defeated On Vote Plan

PARIS — An all-out election battle between President de Gaulle and France's traditional parties shaped up today after the collapse of the government on an anti-de Gaulle censure vote early this morning.

The government of Premier Georges Pompidou toppled after 280 of the 480 National Assembly deputies censured the government with the charge that de Gaulle is violating the constitution in his plan to seek approval by referendum for his proposal to elect future presidents by popular vote.

Pompidou was expected to hand his resignation to de Gaulle later today following the vote which exceeded by 28 the number needed to tell the first legislature of the four-year-old Fifth Republic.

The ballot came at the end of a bitter 12-hour debate on de Gaulle's Oct. 28 referendum. It began Thursday two hours after de Gaulle gave a clear warning to the French people he would retire if they voted against his proposal in the referendum.

At the moment, de Gaulle's proposal seems likely to win a majority in the referendum. The general is popular and trusted, and many voters will probably follow his advice.

But victory for de Gaulle in the referendum can start a constitutional crisis. The opposition is prepared to take the case to the constitutional council whose members, according to reliable reports, feel amendment by referendum is unconstitutional.

WORD IS FINAL

The council is a sort of supreme court to rule on constitutional questions, and the constitution says the council's decision on such matters is final.

Furthermore, de Gaulle's popularity may not rub off on Gaullist candidates for parliament. If, as now seems probable, the midroad parties gang up on the Gaullists in the election, the president could face an anti-Gaullist assembly later in the year.

A decree dissolving the National Assembly is expected to be published Saturday with the government remaining in a caretaker capacity until after the election expected to take place early next month.

Normally de Gaulle's seven-year term would end in early 1965.

The law says the election must take place between 20 and 40 days after the assembly is dissolved.

All political groups in the assembly except de Gaulle's own Union for the New Republic.

Socred Ejected By Speaker

OTTAWA (CP) — Social Credit MP Bernard Dumont, member for Bellechasse, was ejected from the Commons today when he refused to yield the floor to Speaker Marcel Lambert.

The rare step, which electrified the Commons as today's sitting began, was the harshest yet taken by Mr. Lambert — an Edmonton lawyer — in his continuing attempts to curb what he has labelled as breaches of the rules by the opposition and especially the 30-member Social Credit group.

Dumont was "named" by the Speaker — in effect, admonished and ordered to leave the chamber.

The clash occurred when Mr. Dumont, an insurance manager, rose as soon as the sitting began and said—speaking in French—that he had a question of privilege.

But immediately he began a speech dealing with what he said was low farm income in Quebec and the Atlantic provinces.

The Speaker rose—under the rules, the cue for an MP to sit down—and called for order, but Mr. Dumont stayed on his feet, talking steadily.

U.K. Press Predicts 'Ungovernable' House

LONDON (AP)—The French political crisis dominated British newspaper headlines today.

"De Gaulle loses the battle," bannered The Evening Standard. "Pompidou is thrown out." The Evening News headlined.

"The overthrow of the government means that the president is now engaged in a head-on clash with almost every major political party in France," The Evening Standard says.

The clash has been brought about both by the nature of the suggested constitutional reform and de Gaulle's manner of going about it," writes correspondent Sam White.

"The assembly has often in the past shown its hostility to de Gaulle, but though it has huffed and puffed it has never yet dared to actually blow the government down."

"This time, with its mandate running for only another six months, the assembly decided that it had to fight the issue to its logical conclusion."

The Evening News predicted that the forthcoming general election will result in "the near certainty that de Gaulle will have to deal with an ungovernable parliament in the future."

Reds Expel American As Spy

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government today accused Cmdr. Raymond D. Smith, the assistant U.S. naval attaché at the embassy here, of espionage. He was ordered to leave the country immediately.

The Soviet foreign ministry ordered Smith's expulsion in a note handed to U.S. consul James R. McSweeney this morning.

The Soviet note said Smith had "carried out espionage through observation of military objects."

"He had detailed maps and notes and special apparatus the nature of which left no doubt he was engaged in espionage," the note said.

The Soviet news agency Tass said:

"On Oct. 2 competent Soviet organs detained in Leningrad an unknown person who conducted careful observations of a military object."

"The detained person was found today to be the assistant U.S. naval attaché, Raymond Smith. He had with him detailed maps, notes and special apparatus, which prove without doubt that Smith was engaged in spying."

The U.S. consul said he had rejected the protest as well as the charges that Smith was engaged in espionage, "but as usual in these cases we are complying with the ministry's wishes."

(It was assumed Smith's expulsion was ordered in retaliation for the expulsion from the United States this week of two members of the Soviet delegation to the United Nations accused of buying defence secrets from a U.S. sailor.)

U.S. Protests 'Roughing Up'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States accused Russia today of forcibly detaining and "roughing up" its assistant naval attaché in Moscow before ordering him out of the country on a charge of espionage.

The state department said Cmdr. Raymond D. Smith will leave Moscow Monday, complying with Soviet demands.

The U.S., however, "rejected Soviet allegations of improper behavior by Cmdr. Smith," the state department declared.

It added that the U.S. embassy had also "strongly protested to the ministry of defence this gross violation of diplomatic immunity."

Press Officer Lincoln White said the state department meant "both the detention and the roughing up of White."

Right-hander Jack Sanford set the Yankees down without a hit in the first three innings but was charged with New York's first hit in the fourth when he misjudged Tom Tresh's pop-up on an attempted bunt with one out.

The Yankee threat ended as Mickey Mantle, popped up, Tresh stole second and Roger Maris fouled to catcher Ed Bailey.

Big Willie McCovey shot the Giants into a 2-0 lead in the bottom of the seventh as he poled a home run far over the right field screen.

OTTAWA — After Thursday night's marriage of political convenience, in which Social Credit became the unblinking bride of the Conservative government, the question on most lips today is "How long can it last?"

For the moment, the principals are in a honeymoon mood. They will be exchanging fighting words, to be sure, as they did throughout the courtship. But it appears no divorce will be sought for a matter of months, at least.

In its desperate desire to avoid an election this winter, Social Credit entered the informal coalition with no ifs, ands or buts.

UNQUALIFIED

The party's members voted simple and unqualified support of the government, in joining with the Conservatives to reject Liberal-New Democratic party motions of non-confidence.

The meaning of this to observers here is that the Diefenbaker government is almost certain to retain power until spring, possibly longer.

The votes ended all speculation here of the possibility of an election before Christmas.

Guesses about just when the next election might come range from March to as late as September, with preference given to the spring months.

The Social Credit excuse for anything worth while.

BUYER WITH READY CASH GETS BARGAIN

VANCOUVER (CP) —

Trudy Burns, 28, testified Thursday that she made $250 in four days by prostitution in order to take advantage of an early spring sale of narcotics.

She and companion Patricia Rafter, 25, pleaded not guilty to possessing narcotics for the purpose of trafficking.

Miss Burns said the $250 was her half of the money needed to buy 100 capsules of heroin. The other woman put up the other half.

Mrs. Rafter testified that since an RCMP crackdown, the price had fluctuated between $5 and $16 a capsule. She said she made a practice of buying her supplies when the prices were low.

The trial continues.

Labor Would Ban All Nuclear Tests

BRIGHTON, England (CP)—The Labor party's annual conference ended today, unanimously endorsing its 1961 decision opposing nuclear tests by any country.

The resolution was submitted by Frank Cousins, secretary of the giant Transport and General Workers Union and vociferous anti-bomb leader in the party's long-standing clashes on nuclear defence.

The opposition party's impassioned nuclear defence controversy—with Cousins and party leader Hugh Gaitskell as the chief antagonists—reached a climax at last year's conference. At that time Gaitskell obtained an overwhelming reversal of a 1960 decision which had committed the party to unilateral British renunciation of the bomb.

Today's resolution dealt with the separate issue of the world-wide banning of nuclear tests.

Delegates defeated by 4,260-000 votes to 1,583,000 a compromise resolution calling on the next Labor government to nationalize the engineering, chemical and building industries.

African Homes Raided

PORT ELIZABETH (AP)—South African special branch police swooped on many homes of former leaders of the banned African National Congress in African townships Thursday.

Armed with search warrants, police took away letters and documents. No arrests were made. The swoop followed recent unrest, sabotage and arson attempts in eastern Cape Province.

The Victoria Cat Club will hold its monthly meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m., at the home of Mrs. Eva Simpson, 107 West Burnside Road. Anyone interested in attending this in formal discussion on cat genetics will be welcome, officials said. For further information, call GR 9-1538 or EV 2-8853.

'NORMALIZE RELATIONS'

MOSCOW (Reuters)—A Soviet-Yugoslav communique Thursday called for "normalization" of tense relations between the United States and Cuba.

The communique, which was broadcast by Moscow Radio, climaxed a 10-day visit to Yugoslavia by President Leonid Brezhnev of the Soviet Union.

MOTHER GETS JOB

Gave Away Children: 'Can't Afford Them'

LONDON (AP)—Mrs. Margaret Edwards said today she had given away her six children because she couldn't afford to keep them.

The children are Elizabeth 6, Kathleen 5, Brian 4, Leslie 3, Arthur 14 months, and Janet, born a month ago. Mrs. Edwards lives in a trailer with her parents in the nearby countryside.

She was married at 17 to Kenneth Edwards.

Earlier this year, Mrs. Edwards, now 24, and her 27-year-old husband parted. There has been no divorce.

The mother said that she put Elizabeth, Kathleen and Leslie in a children's home. A family in Newcastle adopted Brian. A couple in Peterborough adopted Arthur.

This week Mrs. Edwards gave baby Janet to Mrs. Pauline Rowell who also lives in a trailer.

"I could either live on national assistance and keep Janet, without any hope of getting Elizabeth, Kathleen and Leslie back," said Mrs. Edwards, "or I could give her up and go to work."

"It's been a heart-breaking decision, but now I've got a full-time job in a factory and I hope to save and have a home of my own. Then I'll be able to get back some of my poor children."

In Britain, parents who give away their children can ask to have them back—but not if the children have been legally adopted.

BOSTON GIRL ADMITS KILLING BOY FRIEND

BOSTON (AP)—Police said today a pretty young post-debutante has admitted slaying an electronics engineer whose nude body was found in her luxurious Beacon Hill apartment.

Edward Sherry, lieutenant of detectives, said Miss Suzanne Clift, 21, was booked on a murder charge. Sherry said the girl was to be arraigned today in Boston municipal court.

She is accused of the shooting of Piero Breenani, 27. His body, with a .22-calibre bullet in the back of the head, was found Wednesday in the girl's padlocked bedroom.

Sherry said the girl was calm, almost "stoic" as she told her story. He said she gave no reason for the slaying.

HOUSE VOTE

not vote for it and "that would make it easier for them to vote with the government on our motion."

"I feel sorry for Mr. Thompson that he has to find reasons of that kind to explain his vote," said Mr. Pearson.

Mr. Thompson told a reporter that Social Credit support of the government was based on the belief that another election this winter is wrong.

SEEKS POSITIVE STEPS
"If Prime Minister Diefenbaker can produce positive legislation," said Mr. Thompson, "then I can see the minority government lasting for some time. If he can't, an election will come a little later."

The government's own motion to approve the contents of the throne speech in general terms is scheduled for next Thursday, eighth and last day of the throne speech debate.

Thursday's debate was highlighted by an assault on the government's economic record by J. W. Pickersgill (L-Bonaville-Twillingate), and an equally fire-breathing reply by Justice Minister Fleming, former finance minister.

Mr. Pickersgill, repeating the Liberal contention that the government hid the facts of Canada's economic situation in the period before the June election, said he had not "the faintest doubt" that the government began preparing the austerity program May 3—the day the dollar was devalued to 92½ cents American.

He also made a charge—subsequently denied by Mr. Fleming—that the day Parliament was dissolved in April, or the following day, the then finance minister instructed government departments to cut $50,000,000 out of spending estimates.

"That is false—that is a false statement," shouted Mr. Fleming to Mr. Pickersgill's assertion that work on the austerity program began in May.

CUTS INTO FLEMING
"The minister can get up and say it is false," retorted Mr. Pickersgill. "He can get up and make a speech in this debate if he dares. He has been repudiated and cast aside by the prime minister. He has served his purpose and now he is on the rubbish heap."

The Liberal MP rapped the government for not asking this Parliament to approve the emergency economic measures announced six days after the election—there had been no mention of them in the throne speech.

"We just have taxation by television and order-in-council," a bristling Mr. Fleming, speaking after Mr. Pickersgill, accused the opposition of making "false statements, false accusations, and base innuendoes."

The NDP non-confidence motion, presented by David Lewis of York South, accused the government of "having failed to propose a program of economic planning designed to bring about economic growth and full employment."

Lake Hill PTA will hold a meeting in the school auditorium next Wednesday at 8 p.m. Teachers will outline the year's work in each grade.

CANADA NOT TO BLAME

Substitutes, Not Imports U.S. Lumberman's Worry

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP)—The top Canadian spokesman in a multi-million-dollar Canada-U.S. tariff battle maintained today the major problem confronting lumber industries on both sides of the border is lumber substitutes and not imports.

Bertram Hoffmeister, president of the British Columbia Forest Industries Council, said the rise in unemployment in lumber manufacturing is evidence of a "common revolution" in both countries—the swing towards plywoods, veneers and other products, both wood and non-wood.

Rejecting the contention of the U.S. industry which blamed heavy imports of Canadian softwood for a loss of jobs and mill shutdowns in the U.S., Hoffmeister told the tariff commission Canada also has unemployment problems.

Employment in Canadian forest industries had dropped by 13,500 jobs in 1961 compared with 1960. Since 1951, lumber employment in Canada had declined by 38 per cent. "More than 10 times the rate for other sectors of forest product manufacture."

"These are gloomy figures," he said as he opened the Canadian case for opposing higher U.S. restrictions, "made even gloomier because we have not been capable of shifting employment from lumber to other forest products at a rate compared to that of the U.S."

CONTINUES TESTIMONY

Earlier, Corydon Wagner, vice-president of R. D. Merrill Company of Seattle, continued to testify on his allegations that U.S. industry statements that Canadian softwood imports had led to shutdowns of some 200 U.S. mills were largely concocted and unsubstantiated.

He told the commission Thursday he had attempted to pursue these statements and was given a list of 185 sawmills which had gone out of business. To his surprise he found one of his own firms on the list, a firm that is operating two shifts a day.

Wagner, whose company also has large lumber operations in British Columbia, said he sent letters to some of the large firms named as having shut down and of 33 replies, 11 said they are still operating. Of the others which had closed, only two blamed Canadian softwood as the major cause of their troubles. Five said they just ran out of logs.

Wagner called for greater co-operation between Canada and the U.S. to exploit potential markets at home and abroad. He maintained the American industry simply hasn't done a good promotional job. Tariff restrictions against Canada would be folly, he argued, for it may lead to Canadian restrictions against the U.S.

U.S. Soldier Killed

SEOUL (AP)—A U.S. soldier standing guard 12 miles behind the South Korean frontier was fatally shot and stabbed by "unidentified Koreans" who left behind shells of the type used in Russian burp guns, the U.S. Army announced Thursday.

Party joined in censuring the government over de Gaulle's referendum, which requests authorization to take the presidential vote out of the hands of the present college of national and local public figures.

The issue is expected to be a straight fight between those who support de Gaulle and those who condemn his move as a step towards dictatorship.

Opposition Socialists, Conservatives, Popular Republicans and radical leaders are contemplating an electoral alliance to fight approval of the referendum.

Underground H-Bomb Leaves Vast Crater

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A dome of earth 600 to 800 feet across, longer than two football fields, was thrown 2,000 feet high by a "clean" midget H-bomb exploded underground in Nevada, July 6.

The Atomic Energy Commission disclosed Thursday that the blast, set off at a depth of 635 feet, dug a crater 1,200 feet in diameter and 320 feet deep.

NO SIGNIFICANCE

(The fact that five Socrads, including Deputy Leader Raoul Caouette, were absent for the important vote, was of no special significance, observers said. Two of them were ill, one was at United Nations as an observer and the other two—one of them Caouette—were in Montreal for a TV interview. The Socrads as a group had decided well in advance to support the government, and the absence of the five made no difference to the outcome.)

Thus it seems that when the breakup comes it will be for the same reason as the marriage—convenience.

The arrangement serves the convenience of the Diefenbaker government, too, and this has given rise to considerable speculation to the effect that the Tories and Socrads may have made a secret deal to save parliament from dissolution.

COLUMBIA INVOLVED

One suggestion is that the so-called deal involves federal government agreement for Columbia River development on the terms demanded by British Columbia's Social Credit premier W. A. C. Bennett, in return for Social Credit voting support in the House.

No real evidence has come to light to support suggestions of such a deal.

Rather than any behind-the-scenes pact, it is conceded that federal surrender on the Columbia, which appears imminent, and Socrad support of the government have logically resulted from the government's precarious minority position.

The prime minister may have felt that by compromising on the Columbia he could attract Socrad support and remain in office. If this was his strategy, it has succeeded.

SAANICH RIDES WITH ELMER

Saanich police department has decided to support the Kiwanis Club-sponsored "Elmer the Elephant" traffic safety program for school children.

The department at first declined to back the program on the grounds that its present school safety instruction program is adequate.

Robert Irwin, chairman of the Victoria Kiwanis Club Junior safety patrol committee, said Saanich police will now go along with the program providing it doesn't entail too much extra work for the constable who visits the schools.

The safety program has already started at three schools in Oak Bay and two in Victoria.

The Elmer program teaches children to remember basic rules of automobile traffic safety on their way to and from school.

Trade Deficit Up $600,000 in Month

OTTAWA (CP) — A sharp jump in import buying during July helped tack another $600,000 onto the Canada's trade deficit, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

It left the country with a commodity trade deficit—excess of imports over exports—of $136,600,000 for the first seven months of the year, in contrast to the small $10,900,000 deficit a year earlier.

Heavy increases in trade with the United States, mostly in imports, told most of the story.

Total imports in July of $362,100,000 were 22.4 per cent higher than the year-earlier mark of $459,300,000. About three-quarters of the rise was due to purchases from the U.S.

The month's total exports of OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's cost of living declined during August, reversing a sharp upward trend in the three previous months.

The consumer price index—yardstick of urban area living costs—declined to 131 on Sept. 1 from 131.4 a month earlier, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today. Cheaper food was the main reason.

The index, which is based on 1949 living costs equalling 100, was nearly two points above its mark of 129.1 on Sept. 1 last year, and had fallen back to the same level it was at the start of July. During the three months May-July it had risen by 1.3-10 points.

Though food prices led the August decline, transportation costs were lower too with price cuts on year-end 1962 car models and on gasoline, tires and some auto replacement parts.

The cost to Canadians of housing and clothing rose in August, but there was no measurable change in such things as health and personal care, tobacco and alcohol.

The price index decline in August followed a July dip in industrial wages. The index of average industrial wages and salaries at Aug. 1—latest date available—was 188.3 compared with 188.7 a month earlier and 182.1 a year earlier.

The wages index, based on 1949 levels equalling 100, is computed from a survey of firms employing more than 10 persons in a wide range of industries. It represents an average of total wages paid.

There was a sharp fall in food prices during August, with the index dropping to 126.8 from 128.4, thanks to large seasonal declines for fresh fruits and vegetables. These more than offset further price rises for beef and increases for ham, eggs, poultry and citrus fruits. Pork and butter prices were lower.

Total exports in January-July advanced 11.3 per cent to $3,575,600,000 from last year's $3,211,200,000, with all of the gain accounted for by sales to the United States.

One factor affecting the trade figures is the lower exchange value of the Canadian dollar, which has had the effect of increasing the Canadian dollar values of both exports and imports.

Detailed trade figures for the January-July periods of this year and last, in millions of dollars:

Exports	$2,145.4	$1,737.7
United States	500.4	500.4
United Kingdom	180.0	193.7
Other Cmwth	749.2	770.5
All others	3,575.0	3,211.2
Imports	2,609.8	2,189.3
United States	340.4	363.5
United Kingdom	174.2	153.2
Other Cmwth	587.2	516.2
All others	3,111.6	3,222.2

The report gave no information on the main commodities involved in the trade changes.

Vassall was accused of committing the offences in August and September. No other details were given.

The second charge was not brought until after Vassall had appeared in a magistrate's court Thursday. The case was held over until next Tuesday.

Vassall was arrested last month.

Space Craft Fuel Reserve 'Ample'

By RALPH DIGHTON

U.S.S. KEARSARGE (AP)—Astronaut Walter M. Schirra, who flew his Sigma 7 spacecraft so precisely he landed almost dead centre on target, feels he made one error.

A space agency spokesman reported Thursday night that the navy commander, for the unspecified period, was two systems to control his craft's attitude in space. There was a consequent double-usage of vital fuel—which he was trying to conserve.

However, when the time came to start down at the end of the sixth orbit, Schirra was quoted as saying his instruments showed he still had 78 per cent of his attitude control fuel left. That presumably prompted him earlier to say his amazingly precise six-orbit flight Wednesday was "a definite step forward in terms of scientific accomplishment."

SAVED MORE

Lt.-Col. John Powers, spokesman of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said Schirra's 78-per-cent fuel reserve was much more than earlier astronauts had at the same point in their flights.

Schirra said the amount of fuel left after Schirra positioned his craft for re-entry through the atmosphere had not been measured.

During technical discussions with engineers and five fellow astronauts, Schirra said that several times in flight he felt that too many people were talking to him by radio.

Powers explained that the astronaut's communication with the ground is by high frequency radio and that even if two people are checking out their system in Australia, the astronaut hears them.

He said "we will make a definite effort to reduce the amount of talk on the astronaut frequency."

In response to a question as to how Schirra injured his right hand, Powers said "every astronaut except Virgil Grissom has come back with an injured right hand."

"It happens when they hit the plunger that blows off the escape hatch," Powers said. "You have to hit it with your fist with a pressure of at least four pounds per square inch. It has to be a sharp blow."

Yugoslavs Protest

BELGRADE (UPI)—The Yugoslav government today "vigorously" protested to Communist China for "brutally insulting" Yugoslav president Josip Broz Tito.

The Yugoslav protest was handed to Chinese charge d'affaires Chou Min here by the foreign ministry.

It said that a speech delivered in Peking Oct. 1 by Communist Chinese foreign secretary Chen Yi "brutally insulted the president of Yugoslavia and its leadership."

Now: The Promised Solutions

CANADA'S NATIONAL POLI- tics have settled for the moment into an uneasy balance. The government has survived a want of confidence motion with the aid of its reluctant friends, the Social Crediters.

But while this settles the political crisis at least temporarily, it does not even approach the underlying economic crisis. Given the responsibility it demanded, the government is now bound to advance without delay the long-term solutions promised in the Speech from the Throne. The new budget thus will be the first real test of the government's ability to govern.

In preparing it the government and the opposition parties as well must face the actual state of the nation as distinguished from the many false assumptions of this year's election campaign.

The nation was within inches of bankruptcy in June. Its foreign exchange position has sharply improved since then but it is by no means secure yet. At the same time Canada has continued to spend from the purses of government and individuals far more than it has earned, and has borrowed the margin from foreigners. This is the core of the crisis.

It follows that the first objective of government policy must be to hold down the state's demands on the nation's wealth to the present level or near it, until the means of payment increase—that is to say, until the national economy grows.

Meanwhile, it would be folly of the worst sort to place a further burden on the camel's almost broken back. Yet that is precisely what some members of parliament are proposing without regard to the consequences.

The government's first duty is to measure the nation's current resources, to decide what expenditures it can afford and what expenditures, however desirable for social reasons, must be postponed until the economy is able to support them.

Such a measurement of actual means would surely show that for the present any large expansion of social services is out of the question. But on the other hand there can and should be carefully considered capital investments that would increase the nation's basic wealth, increase its income and pay for themselves.

It has been the failure for the last five years to distinguish between these two classes of expenditure, productive and non-productive, that is largely responsible for the present crisis. In the forthcoming budget we shall see whether the government has at last brought itself to the point of considering these rival claims on national resources—whether, in fact, it is ready to fix a sound schedule of priorities.

The Baby-Buggy Derby

SOME INTERESTING FIGURES released last week by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics bring into sharp focus the school building problem evident here and prove it to be no local phenomenon.

The statistics show a tremendous nation-wide increase in the number of children under 15. Across Canada the number in that age category has risen from 30 to 34 per cent of the total population in the last 10 years. In British Columbia, where the population is weighted by the number of elderly Canadians who come west to retire, the ratio of 15-and-under is less than the national average. That group represents only 31 per cent of the total population. But the rate of increase in the last 10 years is proportionately higher than in any other province.

The number in this category has increased by 67 per cent in the decade. What that means in provision of classrooms and teachers is apparent to the British Columbia taxpayer. The accommodation available in 1951-52 has had to be supplemented by a building program providing about two-thirds again as much space.

This may not be news to the property owner of Victoria. It does, nevertheless, provide statistics for comparison with other parts of Canada.

Appeal to the Radical

BRITAIN'S LIBERAL LEADER, Mr. Joe Grimond, does not expect his corporal's guard of members in the British Parliament to become the majority overnight when the next election is held. He recognizes the long, hard road ahead. At the same time he is encouraged by the new vitality the Liberals are showing—a vitality to which he has made substantial contributions.

At the Liberal Party conference in Llandudno late last month, Mr. Grimond indicated the course he believes his followers should pursue in an effort to become the radical alternative to Britain's Conservatives. That course, as he sees it, should take the Liberals sailing past the Labor Party, whose leader, Mr. Gaitskell, he views as a true conservative reactionary, "well-spoken, cautious, pessimistic."

He attacks Mr. Gaitskell for failing to support Britain's entry into the European Economic Community. He criticizes Mr. Macmillan for entering negotiations "not in a spirit of opportunity but as a last resort by a government at the end of its tether, desperate for any distraction from the troubles piling on it."

The Liberals, represented by Mr. Grimond, are enthusiastic supporters of Britain's entry into the Common Market.

Their hope, as observers see it, is to cut deeply into the socialist ranks and take votes from the Labor Party in the course of a surge which has disclosed new popularity for Liberalism after its 40 years in the wilderness.

'That Little Candle ...'

A CHEERFUL, MODEST ITEM in the back pages of our newspapers reports the success of 16 physically handicapped people in passing the first level swimming tests for Red Cross certificates—the first awarded under such circumstances in British Columbia.

These are people who have received help, instruction and encouragement from PO Al Aylward and volunteer assistants at the Naden pool.

It is gratifying to learn that people without normal physical abilities have been able to progress to this degree in swimming, deriving in the process a measure of self-confidence, useful exercise and some enjoyment.

It is probably more gratifying to realize that there are in Victoria people who will give the time and consideration required to instruct the handicapped so they attain at least some proficiency in the water. "So shines a good deed ..."

After a Few Days of Sparring the Government Faces a Grim, Two-Sided Dilemma

By BRUCE HUTCHISON, From Ottawa

THANKS to a Social Credit Party standing conveniently on its head, the Diefenbaker government has won a reprieve from immediate sentence of death. That was assured by two events in the chaotic Canadian Parliament.

Messrs. Thompson and Caouette, the rival Social Credit leaders who disagree on many points of policy, agreed on a point of strategy and decided to vote against a Liberal motion of confidence on Thursday. Then the Liberal Party refused to support a Social Credit motion of the same general intent but deliberately worded to assure its defeat and prevent an autumn election.

Thus the New Democratic Party was granted the luxury of voting against the government in accordance with its principles without the risk of destroying Parliament and facing the hostile voters.

But the government's reprieve may not be as safe or as long as it looked after this week's queer parliamentary charade. Certainly it is far too early to say that the government has been given six months or so of life as is generally supposed in this capital.

Having moved a simple motion of no-confidence and seen it defeated as he expected, and having refused to fall into an obvious trap and vote for Social Credit theories, Liberal Leader Lester Pearson is still in a position to threaten and perhaps to achieve the government's defeat at any moment by any one of various tactics.

For example, if he moved another motion attacking what he calls "right money" neither the Social Credit nor the New Democratic parties could possibly oppose it without finally stultifying themselves, for both have bitterly denounced the government's monetary policies as the ruin of the nation. Mr. Caouette has gone even further than that by announcing that he would support any motion against tight money.

Whether Mr. Pearson will grasp this or some other lethal weapon in the present crisis of politics remains to be seen.

As it stands now the existing situation is satisfactory to the Liberal Party and ostensibly to the reprieved government. A second look, however, shows that the real facts differ drastically from the mere mathematics of parliamentary votes and those facts doom the government either to defeat or to a period of desperate strain on the daily border of defeat.

Assuming that after a few days of sparring the government is assured of some six months more of office, it faces a grim, two-sided dilemma.

In the first place, it must prepare for an election, probably next spring, at the moment when the splinter parties find it safe to pull the plug and dissolve Parliament. The political climate then is likely to be much less hopeful for Conservative candidates than it is now.

After a winter of heavy unemployment and in all probability the downturn of the regular business cycle, the spring planting season should be highly unfavorable, the soil cold and unresponsive. Indeed, many opposition politicians wonder why the government is not trying to contrive an immediate issue and hasten to the country before the economic weather deteriorates. Obviously that is not the government's intention at present anyway. It will cling to office as long as possible, hoping for something to turn up.

Secondly, by surviving all the no-confidence motions the government will be forced at last to make the wrenching economic decisions so far evaded and blurred with double-talk.

During the next few weeks at latest it must bring down a new budget in effect repudiating the budget of last April, as already pledged in the Speech from the Throne. In so doing it must face the fundamental issue which the current political manoeuvres on all sides obscure but cannot long delay.

That issue is simply whether the nation should try to rehabilitate its economy by slimming down the fat of expenditures and costs or by inflating the money supply and pumping in more credit.

At first sight it would seem that the government and the opposition must stand on one side of this issue or the other, but it would be quite out of character for Mr. Diefenbaker to take such a clear position. The two-man team of Messrs. Nowlan and McCutcheon evidently is relied upon to produce a bland compromise guaranteed not to antagonize either the advocates of economy or the free spenders in Parliament and public.

If the joint ministers of finance have framed a policy of any sort there has been no sign of it in the Speech from the Throne, in the prime minister's sprawling and angry oration of Tuesday or in any statement by the government.

If such a policy actually had passed through Cabinet it is almost certain that some inkling of its contents would have spilled out in the recent torrent of political rhetoric.

The truth seems to be that the government's mind and energies were so fully engaged up to now in the mere act of survival that the decisions affecting Canada's life far beyond the noisy borders of politics have been postponed. They can now be postponed no longer.

Whatever they may be they can hardly fail to offend large sections of the electorate. The hues are gaudy but the government has painted itself into a very narrow corner.

So have the splinter parties. Social Credit has saved Mr. Diefenbaker, doubtless by advance agreement, at the expense of voting confidence in a government which it has ceaselessly condemned for wrecking Canada. The New Democratic Party has escaped from the immediate hook because it is assured of the government's survival for the moment with Social Credit support and hence can vote no-confidence—but at the expense of playing the most obvious sort of politics.

Translated into English, all the oratory of the splinters merely means that they are terrified of an election. So is everybody in this town except the Liberals, and perhaps even they would prefer a spring poll when the failure of government policies has been demonstrated by a hard winter.

A NEW APPROACH

Making the Criminal Fit the Punishment

By B. A. TOBIN

THE law seems to be adopting the principle of payment in kind, after these years. Of course, they've had it to some extent before—the old eye-for-an-eye, tooth-for-a-tooth punishment served for many a century. But in our own more charitable age a certain refinement has been added. We don't actually yank out a tooth from a culprit who has knocked out somebody else's tooth. That's too crude. We might condemn him instead to read half a dozen weighty tomes on dental science, or watch a dentist for a few days.

From the idea of guilt by association we are progressing to the idea of reform by association. Apparently some of the culprits don't like it much.

Take that teenager in New Jersey who was convicted of speeding 110 miles an hour in his father's car. He didn't hit anybody but the police caught him, and his sentence—along with losing his licence for a year and paying a small fine—was to spend two nights in the emergency ward of a hospital.

It happened that on one of the nights four people were brought in after crashing a car at 80 miles an hour. The youth began paying his debt right there. White and shaken he staggered from the operating room and sought the bathroom.

A sentence like that could conceivably do more good and last much longer than the orthodox dollars-of-days type of thing.

Then there was the somewhat similar case of the four white youths in Los Angeles who shot a blowgun dart at a group of Negroes on a street corner. The charge was disturbing the peace. But the sentence turned out to be disturbing the mind.

Each of the men must attend an adult class in Negro history for the coming semester. And to prove they listen, they have to win a C average or better.

A fellow could come out of a sentence like that a good deal wiser than he went in.

But why stop here? The principle could be applied to many other situations.

How about sending a convicted litter bug to spend a week raking the city garbage dump? That's a quid pro quo and no mistake.

Or the smoke nuisance creator—that would be easy. Three hours a day for a week up on the rim of his smokestack, hoping the boys wouldn't throw on any old tires.

The purse snatcher could be dealt with in a number of ways. Perhaps a week of pulling hot cheques out of the fire for somebody else would give him enough burns to reform him. Or how about setting him up at a stall in some busy street and making him clean out ladies' purses free of charge for a couple of weeks?

Of course, we must avoid "cruel and unnatural" punishments. But while some of them might be cruel, they would certainly be natural.

How about the youngster who breaks a school window, climbs in and scatters ink and chalk over everything? He could do nicely with a sentence of two months in the public library every night, doing research for 10,000-word essays on "The History of Glass," "The Chemistry of Ink," "Geological Quotients in Amorphous Forms of Calcium Carbonate," and a few other appropriate topics. Vandalism would die a natural death.

The principle of retribution might soon come to be known as "eye glaze for an eye, toothache for a tooth," and there is good reason to believe, human beings being as they are, that these punishments might be much more effective.

The Mirror

(London Free Press)

DR. CHARLES BOAS, a former University of British Columbia professor of geography is now the star clown in a travelling circus. Oddly enough, he is known as Professor Onions. He is happy in his new life and says that a good clown act is really a mirror of society.

This raises some interesting questions on the relative value to society of professors and clowns. It also proves that some people are never happier than when they are clowning. But isn't it true that some professors manage to play both roles with considerable success?

Fretting Unnecessarily

I think that we fret ourselves unnecessarily with fear of extinction by the guided missile and the mushroom bomb.

Of course we have to be on guard and prepared to pay the cost, since nothing so much worth while can be attained by negligence and ease. At the same time I believe there is a moral force at the heart of Being that will determine the last result.

If the Soviet system proves better for humanity than ours, which I do not believe, it will prevail; but if ours proves better than theirs, which I firmly do believe, we need have no fear of the result. So far as the war scare is concerned I would point out that every living creature from the ant and the flea to the elephant and the whale clings to life and human beings, far more God-given and sensitive, surely not less than these. No, humanity does not wish to be destroyed.

Of the power of the moral force that rules the universe history has provided us with example. Centuries ago the hideous hordes of Huns swarmed down threatening to overwhelm Europe. They were driven back never to return, and in our own day we have seen what befell the monstrous Hitler and the inflated Mussolini. And it is still true that "Freedom's battle once begun, bequeathed from bleeding sire to son, though baffled oft, is ever won."

I still believe that God exists, that righteousness and judgment are in His right hand and His left, and I agree with Bryant that: Truth crushed to earth shall rise again. The eternal years of God are hers. While Error wounded writhes in pain And lies among her worshippers.

WRONG APPROACH

For too many years our approach to mathematics teaching has been that of a priest initiating his acolytes to the mysteries—or like that of a trainer trying to teach his performing seals to balance rubber balls on their noses.

—David Wheeler, Lecturer of Education at Leicester University.

P.T.A.—Pause That Refreshes

DURING my first two years in grade school, my folks established an interesting relationship with the young ladies who taught me, Miss Gertrude Field and Miss Bernadine O'Keefe. They would come to our house occasionally for Sunday dinner and, in season, I'd take them roses. Mother cut from our garden.

The visits to our home permitted an interchange of opinion on the progress made by Mother's young hopeful in class.

After that, contacts between home and school were limited to annual Christmas concerts and an occasional special assembly when rolls of honor were presented to other kids for proficiency, deportment and attendance.

This disengagement continued until my final year in high school. Then, one ominous night, I answered the doorbell to find Gordon Downes on our threshold. He, to my mind, was probably the last of the headmasters in our public schools—and principal at Oak Bay.

I ushered him in and he asked if he could talk to my parents. So I summoned them to the living room and was excluded from the conversation which followed.

I sweated. For an hour or more I wondered what I'd been caught at. It isn't pleasant for a 15 or 16-year-old to review, in solitude, the crimes and misdemeanours he has committed and believed he has concealed from authority.

By the time Mr. Downes left I was ready to blurt out my confession, make a clean breast of my entire misspent life. I figured I'd be better off admitting everything and throwing myself on the mercy of the court.

By great good fortune, I didn't. I held my tongue for one of the few times in my life.

To my great amazement, my parents informed me that Mr. Downes had been talking over my future with them, discussing the fields in which I appeared to have some ability and suggesting possible vocations for which my school work indicated some potential.

Gordon Downes, who seemed to stand aloof from students except when discipline had to be administered, evidently made a point of finding out a lot about the young people under him and offering kindly advice.

Still, it seemed risky to me to have parents and teachers get together. They be- longed in separate worlds, as far as I was concerned—and it would be better if they kept it that way.

When I became a father, the concept had changed. Parent-Teacher Associations were in full swing, though I didn't think much of them. As far as most of the men in my generation of young parenthood were concerned, P.T.A. meetings were "Mother's Night Out." She had a chance to leave the house, gossip with neighbors and drink tea with teachers. It appeared to be a reasonably satisfactory form of social activity, but not worth too much consideration, certainly not for men.

Then, when the kids were passing through Margaret Jenkins and I became seized with what I took to be social (broad sense) responsibilities. I thought it time for me to pitch in and help. The P.T.A. and the school were doing something for my kids. I'd better do something for the P.T.A. and the school.

A bit condescendingly I went to a meeting and accepted junior office. From then on, for several years I mingled with a lot of pleasant people. We had a batch of Ph.D.s and M.D.s on the roll and they were active. It's an experience to see one of Canada's leading astronomers buncoing his neighbors at the fall fair "White Elephant" stall. And it's pretty gratifying to a program chairman to be able to call on fellow-P.T.A.-er Cliff Carl to give an illustrated talk on five minutes' notice when the provincial archivist absent-mindedly forgets to show for his engagement.

It was a lot of fun. We heard some excellent speakers, got to know a little more about what the education system is trying to do and firmed up some of our objections to what we didn't like.

But you pass through a cycle. When you've done your hitch, you've had enough. The junior and senior high schools have begun to realize that. Folks often have graduated from P.T.A. when their youngsters pass out of elementary school. That, it seems, is why P.T.A.s are beginning to fold here.

Maybe they're due for a rest. Then, come next school building program, they may have renewed their energies for a campaign to give the kids the accommodation they need—campaigns which by themselves have justified the P.T.A. in the minds of many people who want good education for their offspring.

ACTIVE ECONOMIC WARFARE KENNEDY PLAN FOR CUBA

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Having ruled out direct military action to smash the growing Communist base in Cuba, President Kennedy has embarked on a strategy of active economic warfare against the Castro regime.

His immediate purpose is to make Soviet aid to Cuba as costly and unprofitable as possible.

His long-range aim is to bring the government of the Caribbean nation down in collapse.

To achieve his short-range purpose the president needs not only to raise the cost of Soviet shipping to Cuba but also to deny Soviet Premier Khrushchev and new Communist successes in the western hemisphere.

To attain the ultimate destruction of Cuban Prime Minister

News Analysis

Fidel Castro by economic and political means, if that is possible, the president needs far greater support and co-operation from U.S. allies all over the world than he so far has been able to muster.

Two developments this week give the broad outlines of Kennedy's limited action program.

GETS AGREEMENT

In a meeting with 19 Latin American foreign ministers at the state department, State Secretary Rusk sought and won unanimous agreement on two major points.

One was that U.S. allies in the western hemisphere must do more than they have done so far to protect their lands and their political systems against subversion with arms, agents and money exported from Cuba.

The other point was that the Latin Americans should take whatever measures are available to them to cut off their remaining trade with Cuba and deny Castro the benefits of western hemisphere imports and exports.

In the second development, administration officials disclosed to Congress, to the Latin American foreign ministers and to the NATO allies that the United States has decided to impose penalties where possible on those who make ships available for transporting Soviet bloc goods to Cuba.

The shipping restrictions outlined by state department officials are sweeping:

1. They will bar any Soviet vessels from American ports (except for humanitarian reasons or other special cases) because the Soviets are sending arms to Castro.

2. They will deny U.S. cargoes to ships involved in the Cuban trade with Communist bloc countries.

U.S. officials estimate 75 per cent of Castro's trade now is with the Sino-Soviet bloc, 25 per cent with non-Communist countries virtually all of which are U.S. allies.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

By DICK WEST

Freedom From Information

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An old city editor once told me that a newspaperman deals with only two types of people: (1) those who are trying to get something in the papers, and (2) those who are trying to keep something out.

For obvious reasons, it is the second group that causes the most concern.

A well-documented report on the keepers recently was put together by one of my able colleagues, Clark Mollenhoff, in a book entitled "Washington Cover-Up."

Additionally, a congressional subcommittee keeps on the lookout for secrecy in government, as do several "freedom of information" committees within the journalism profession.

This is all well and good, but it so happens that most of my dealings are with the other type that my old city editor told me about.

I am continually in contact with people who are trying to get something in the papers, and this prompts me to propose the formation of a different kind of committee.

It would be called the "freedom from information" committee and its purpose would be to discourage the dissemination of data that I would just as soon not know about.

At any given moment you can find on my desk a variety of documents that would fall within the purview of such a committee.

For instance, here's a press release from an amusement park informing me that the world's first roller coaster was built in Pittsburgh in 1904.

The parks suggested that this information would prove useful in case the Russians ever claim that they invented the roller coaster.

The park should have kept its trap shut. It has now made it impractical for the United States ever to accuse the Russians of inventing the roller coaster.

I place in the same category a report from a data processing firm which made a study of rent-paying habits in New York City.

Among other things, the firm found that blue is the best color for dunning a tenant for overdue rent. A blue notice will cause the tenant to pay up more promptly than a white or pink notice.

This is a dangerous discovery and I hope the "freedom from information" committee can be organized in time to deal with it.

If a thing like that became widespread, it could undermine the entire economy.

HOME GARDEN

Made-to-Measure Tools Next?

Most of us have hobbies as well as our gardens. Golf, fishing, hunting, woodworking, metalworking, and a host of other diversions help us enjoy our leisure hours.

It is only concerning the hobby of gardening that we hear complaints about hard work. The other hobbies are considered pleasure, but gardening is classified as labor.

Possibly the reason lies in the fact that one cannot golf without made-to-measure clubs, the best of golf balls, and less-ions from a professional. Nor can one work wood or metal without a complete kit of the finest tools, nor hunt and fish without expensive equipment.

But for gardening a rusty shovel and a rake with teeth missing is considered good enough.

The old saying that a craftsman is no better than his tools applies equally to gardening as to other hobbies, and good tools, well cared for, can make gardening a pleasure.

To the golfer the "feel" of the club means everything; to the fisherman and hunter the "feel" of the rod or gun is important; yet the gardener will take the first tool the salesman hands him.

There is a tremendous difference in the "feel" of spades, even those by the same maker that look identical and the same applies to hoes, rakes, cultivators, and small hand tools.

Many a wise woman has won her man's heart by presenting him with a good tool for his hobby, and some have used this method to add gardening to his other hobbies.

Years ago I was acquainted with a logger who thought nothing of spending an hour or more selecting a new handle for his axe. He explained that the steel in the axe head and the grain in the handle determined whether felling a tree was work or pleasure.

What a great day it will be for gardening when men and women select their spades and hoes in the same way. We would soon see improvements in quality, design, and finish, for many brands now on the market would have to be improved to meet the standards of discerning gardeners, and it might even lead to made-to-measure tools.

In the meantime it is worth remembering there is a difference in gardening tools, and the more at home a tool feels in the hand the more pleasure will be derived from its use.

SYNOPSIS — In the past 24 hours there has been a marked decrease in the activity associated with what was a vigorous storm centred in the Gulf of Alaska. Probably due to the development of an extensive and very intense storm centre in the Behring Sea the low-pressure area off the Queen Charlotte's has become almost stationary, and the disturbance itself, has slowed to a drift southward over the coast. Cloudy skies and scattered showers will prevail in most coastal areas but comparatively little effect over the interior.

New Job Soon For Oil Chief?

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

W. Harold Rea, even at the age of 55, is not likely to have any difficulty finding another job if he wants one.

The man who built Canadian Oil Companies Ltd. up from a $20 million to a $127 million corporation in the space of 14 years is sure to be in demand.

Nevertheless, it is quite evident there is considerable heartbreak involved for Mr. Rea in seeing Canadian Oil disappear as an independent Canadian company.

Prior to the eventually successful bid by Shell Oil to swallow up Canadian Oil, Mr. Rea was working on plans to round out the company's operations by acquiring some smaller western producing oil firms.

This would have resulted in a few years' time in Mr. Rea's achieving his ambition of building a major integrated Canadian oil company controlled by Canadians.

Mr. Rea this week began the process of withdrawing from the Canadian oil scene when he resigned his directorships of Power Corp. of Canada Ltd., which controlled about 28 per cent of Canadian Oil stock, and Canadian Power and Paper Securities Ltd., which has an interest in Power Corp.

It seems clear that once the Yard Unions Support Yarrows Electricians

Business agents of all Victoria shipyard unions have endorsed the stand taken by Electricians' Union, Local 230 in a dispute with Yarrows Ltd. over non-union workmen.

The agents met Thursday, electricians' business agent Jack Driscoll said.

"In effect it means redoubling efforts to organize these non-union men and we will do all possible to remove restrictive influences in the dockyard," Mr. Driscoll said.

He referred to what the union calls an anti-union campaign in HMC Dockyard, from which non-union electrical workers were sent last week to do work on the destroyer escort "Saskatchewan" contrary to the union claims, to terms of agreement with Yarrows, where the warship is being built.

Convention Hall to Handle 450

An immediate start on a convention hall to accommodate 450 to 500 people and a car park building for 150 vehicles, in conjunction with the Dominion Hotel, was announced Thursday afternoon by the new owners of the hotel.

Morman Loomer, president of Dominion Hotel of Victoria (1962) Ltd., a Vancouver syndicate which purchased the business from Max Zabel of Victoria for "under a million dollars," said the new $150,000 adjunct would adjoin the hotel on the corner of Blanshard and Yates Streets.

Mr. Loomer said that other changes planned soon were addition of a steak house to supplement the Terra Cotta Room dining facilities and a new stand and gift shop in the lobby.

Speech, Pictures

The Retired Members Group of the St. John Ambulance Association will hold a meeting Wednesday, 2 p.m. at 941 Pandora. Mrs. A. Mawer will give a speech and show pictures of Arizona and the Hawaiian Islands.

This immediate expansion program will be followed later by renovation of other parts of the hotel.

Mr. Loomer said he planned to move his residence from Vancouver to Victoria to supervise the hotel operation.

The entire staff, most of whom have been with the hotel for many years, is being retained.

Official transfer of the property took place Monday. Handling the deal, reported last month in the Times, were Morey and Johnstone Ltd. of Victoria and Newcastle Realty Ltd. of Nanaimo.

Mr. Zabel, who owned the Dominion for 16 years, said Thursday he had no immediate plans for the future but would continue to live in Victoria.

Whitey Unruffled By Willie's Spree

Ford Pitches New York To Opening-Game Win

SAN FRANCISCO (CP)—San Francisco Giants were battling the odds again today as they faced New York Yankees in the second game of the World Series.

After Thursday's 6-2 defeat in the opening game, the Giants were in their usual position of having to battle back.

But manager Alvin Dark was still confident his Giants will win the series. He pinned his hopes on right-hander Jack Sanford, who won 24 of 31 decisions during the regular season.

Ralph Houk, the Yankee mentor, selected his best right-hander, Ralph Terry, who topped American League pitchers with 23 victories, while losing 12.

Satisfied with his team's all-around performance in the series opener, Houk planned to use the same line-up that rapped the Giant pitching for 11 hits including a home run by Clete Boyer—and brought the Yankees their fourth straight World Series triumph over the Giants. The Yankees won the last three games in 1951, the last time the two teams met.

Dark decided on several changes. He benched Orlando Cepeda, Harvey Kuenn and Ed

Boyer is a left-handed hitter, too, but Haller, a former Illinois quarterback, normally catches Sanford. Haller suffered a cut on his right forearm that needed six stitches in the second playoff game against Los Angeles last Tuesday.

"I want to play," said Haller. "The stitches won't matter."

Kuenn and Cepeda failed to get a hit Thursday as Whitey Ford tamed the Giants on 10 hits for his 10th World Series triumph. Cepeda, the National League's leading home-run hitter and runs-batted-in leader in 1961, left four runners on base and hit into a double play to kill off a promising Giant rally.

"Orlando is worn out," said Dark. "Including winter ball, he has played 260 games since last season. I'm not in favor of winter ball for fellows who play regularly in the major leagues."

Dark wouldn't use tiredness as an alibi for the Giants, even though the club seemed emotionally drained after the wild three-game pennant playoff with the Dodgers.

"Ford just pitched a fine game," he said. "He deserved to win. But we'll get them. We've come back before."

Off to a shaky start, Ford got better as the game progressed. He permitted only two hits after the fifth inning and struck out Willie Mays in the eighth after Willie had cracked three line singles in his first three times at bat. Including all-star games, Mays now has nine hits in 11 times at bat against the brilliant Yankee southpaw.

"If Willie has a weakness, I haven't found it yet," remarked Ford. "But that's nothing to be ashamed about. He's only one of the greatest hitters I've ever faced."

Sanford has never pitched in a World Series. Terry, whose World Series record is 0-3, has appeared in four games, three as a starter.

The Yankees lost no time in giving the Giants a taste of their power Thursday. With one out, Bobby Richardson and Tom Tresh hit successive singles. Giant starter Billy O'Dell struck out Mickey Mantle but Roger Maris drove in both runners with a long ground-rule double that missed being a homer only because of a last-minute lunge by right fielder Felipe Alou.

But Boyer put the Yanks ahead to stay with a blast that barely cleared the left field wall in the seventh.

A single by Maris set the stage for two more Yankee runs in the eighth. O'Dell grazed Elston Howard with a pitch and Dale Long, a late-inning replacement for Bill Skowron, singled Maris home. Don Larsen took over from O'Dell and yielded another run as Pagan and Harvey Kuenn collided under Boyer's short fly ball and the shortstop's throw to the plate was too late to get Howard.

Howard's ninth-inning single off Stu Miller scored Tresh with the final Yankee run.

Stamps Release Two CALGARY (CP)—Calgary Stampers of the Western Hockey League announced the release of two players, defenceman Cy Whiteside and winger Ted Demchuk.

Lopat succeeded Hank Bauer as Kansas City pilot last week. The announcement of the signing of McGaha and Dykes is expected before the end of the World Series.

McGaha, 36, managed Cleveland Indians in 1962. He was released on the final day of the season.

Dykes joined the Braves as coach following his dismissal as Cleveland manager at the end of the 1961 season. The veteran, who will be 66 next month, managed 21 years in the majors.

Pafko, a former star with Chicago Cubs, Brooklyn Dodgers and Milwaukee, was the first-base coach for the Braves for three seasons.

Milwaukee will become the fourth big league club under which White will serve as a coach. He formerly was employed in a similar capacity by Cleveland, Detroit, Tigers and Kansas City.

Uplands Results Top award in a women's medal round at Uplands Golf Club Thursday was won by Mrs. M. Coxworth, who fired a net 74.

Pacing "B" division players with a net 70 was Mrs. W. A. Craven. Leading the "C" division was Miss C. Hill, with a net 77.

CARDIFF BLANKED LONDON (CP)—Newbridge defeated Cardiff 6-0 in a Rugby Union game Thursday.

to lead the big line. He was the league's most valuable player last year.

Veteran Rudy Filion and John Lumley, who comes from Johnstown in the Eastern League, will play with MacFarland.

Don Chiupka and Gerry Leonard—holdovers from the second string, along with Wayne Freitag, who toiled with Hull-Ottawa last season.

Trying for other forward spots are Gene Therrien, Indianapolis; Art Chiupka, Port Arthur Juniors; John Annable, Vancouver Canucks; and Tony Bukovick, Weyburn, Sask., Juniors.

Formidable Guyle Fielder will be back for his ninth season with Totems. Last year he had 73 points on 21 goals and 52 assists.

And Allen still has heavy artillery in Filion (21-63-84), MacFarland (46-35-81), Leonard (25-36-81) and Chiupka (21-29-50).

FELIPE MAKES PUTOUT WITH FLOURISH

Outfielder Felipe Alou of San Francisco came up with this spectacular play in third inning of opening game of World Series Thursday at Candlestick Park but his fancy fielding was all in vain, Giants dropped a 6-2 decision to New York Yankees. Alou is making his only putout of errorless game with diving catch of ball hit by Yankee leftfielder Tom Tresh. (AP Wirephoto)

Watson Goes For Experience

Oarsmen Name 17-Man Squad

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP)—The Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen reversed a previous stand not to participate in the 1963 Pan-American Games and has decided to send a 17-man rowing team to Sao Paulo, Brazil, next spring.

The meeting named the University of British Columbia eight, four and pair, which will compete in the British Empire Games, as its Pan-American sweep our competitors.

The Toronto Argonaut entry of Bart Hildebrand and Leif Gottfredsen will also be entered in the double sculling competition in Brazil.

Laurie West of UBC will coach the Canadian squad. The 1963, Pan-American games are scheduled for April 20 to May 5.

Boston Bruins' coach Phil Watson says veteran minor league Bobby Perreault will tend goal in the National Hockey opener against Montreal Oct. 11.

Boston's last-place finishers of 1961-62 have sent down Bruce Gamble from pre-season training camp for the second straight year, partly because he is overweight.

Perreault, 31, and rookie Ed Johnston, 26, have shared Boston goaltending in the current exhibition series.

Sid Abel, coach and general manager of Detroit Red Wings, announced Thursday that defenceman John Mizuk and centre Neil Ford will join Edmonton Flyers of the Western Hockey League immediately.

Ron Harris, defenceman with the Memorial Cup-winning Hamilton Junior Wings last season, has replaced Mizuk as the fifth rearguard with the Wings. Val Fonteyne, with the Wings last two seasons, has been working with Pittsburgh Hornets of the American League and will also join the National Hockey League club.

Forward Earl Balfour, defenceman Roger Lafreniere and centre Ed Joyal are all ticketed for Pittsburgh.

Vancouver Canucks of the WHL have ended a pre-season run-through professional ranks by acquiring a fifth man for their defensive unit.

He is Marty Howe, formerly of Denver University and property of Toronto Maple Leafs, who was working with Portland at Victoria.

Calgary's WHL Stampers also came up with good news Thursday, when they signed defenceman Fred Hucul to a two-year contract. Hucul had planned to retire from pro hockey and take a coaching job with Red Deer in the Central Alberta League.

TIME OUT! JEFF REATE

"Five thousand dollars could hinge on this next pitch, and you try to tell me, his wife, I can't come out to calm him down!"

Boyer Doesn't Need A Pinch-Hitter Now

(Times News Services) SAN FRANCISCO—Some notes and quotes at World Series time:

The home run that Clete Boyer hit in the seventh inning to break a 2-2 tie and start New York on its way to the 6-2 victory over San Francisco Giants was particularly pleasing to the Yankee infielder.

In the opening game of the 1960 series in Pittsburgh, Casey Stengel took Boyer out for a pinch-hitter in the first inning.

Yankees were 6 1/2-to-5 favorites to win today's game and Broadway bookmakers established New York 13-to-5 favorites to capture the series. The odds are 4 to 1 against the Yanks winning the next three in a row.

The Yankees, like professional executioners, reacted with complete calm to their first game victory.

"It was a well-played ball game on both sides," said manager Ralph Houk judiciously.

"I got stronger as I went along," said pitcher Whitey Ford. "It must be the weather (crisp and sunny)."

"Biggest thrill of my life," said Boyer. That was the closest anyone got to excitement.

"The two big hits of the game were by Maris and Boyer," said Houk. Roger Maris' double in the first had scored two runs.

Giants' one-two home run punch has the edge, this season, over the Yankees' formidable pair of Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris. San Francisco's Willie Mays (49) and Orlando Cepeda (35) have an 84-63 edge over the "M-boys." Mantle hit 30 this season and Maris 33.

"That guy's a pretty good pitcher," said San Francisco manager Alvin Dark said in complimenting Ford. "Then with characteristic determination, Dark added: 'We'll get 'em tomorrow. You can't throw two guys at us as good as he is.'"

Dark appeared gloomy when asked about his erstwhile power-hitting first baseman, Orlando Cepeda, who is in a terrible slump.

"He's swinging the way he always has," Dark said. "Orlando has played 260 games this year and is worn out as far as I'm concerned. I'm not in favor of winter ball for fellows who play regularly in the majors."

Cepeda, who plays winter ball in his native Puerto Rico, never hit the ball out of the infield Thursday.

The Giants beat the Yanks in 1921 and '22, but haven't defeated them since then in series competition. Yankees won out in 1923, '36, '37 and '51.

Houk said first baseman Bill Skowron was not feeling well before the game. That's why he took him out in the seventh and put in Dale Long, a long-time bench warmer with the Giants. Long lashed a run-scoring single to right in the eighth.

to lead the big line. He was the league's most valuable player last year.

Veteran Rudy Filion and John Lumley, who comes from Johnstown in the Eastern League, will play with MacFarland.

Don Chiupka and Gerry Leonard—holdovers from the second string, along with Wayne Freitag, who toiled with Hull-Ottawa last season.

Trying for other forward spots are Gene Therrien, Indianapolis; Art Chiupka, Port Arthur Juniors; John Annable, Vancouver Canucks; and Tony Bukovick, Weyburn, Sask., Juniors.

Formidable Guyle Fielder will be back for his ninth season with Totems. Last year he had 73 points on 21 goals and 52 assists.

And Allen still has heavy artillery in Filion (21-63-84), MacFarland (46-35-81), Leonard (25-36-81) and Chiupka (21-29-50).

'Homecoming' Brings Out Milligan

... a commuter

Wally Milligan wants to slip back into the pilot's seat "as quietly as possible," saving, possibly, all the fanfare for Victoria United's Pacific Coast Soccer League homecoming.

Milligan has bowed to the players' wishes and will be in his accustomed managerial role Saturday when United plays the fledgling Seattle Hungarians at Royal Athletic Park.

Decision was announced Thursday following the team's regular workout at Athletic Park.

With the Coast League back to eight teams following some adjustments—and umpteen disputes—and with Milligan back at his old stand, all seems serene on the soccer front.

The latest and apparently final callover listed these teams: United, Seattle, North Shore, Firefighters, Canadians, Columbus, Royal City and Pils.

Between the disputes, which saw both New Westminster Royals and St. Andrews withdraw from the league (and replaced by Royal City FC and Pils), United managed to mark up a 1-and-1 won-lost record in its first two games. United lost to Canadians 1-0 and then surprised Columbus 2-1 in games at Vancouver.

Seattle, whose lineup includes former B.C. stars Les Fabri and Mike Kuczi and winger Tommy Major of Victoria, has lost its first two games.

Milligan's starting lineup for Saturday includes Barry Sadler in goal; fullbacks Ron Jenkin and Len Anderson; halfbacks George Wright, Geoff Hill and Harold Holroyd; forwards Chummy Crabbe, Henry Vanderhorst, George Paul, Mel Cooper and Dave Stothard.

Game time is 2 p.m.

CORNER KICKS: United also has a Thanksgiving Day date scheduled. The PCSL side faces Victoria and District League All-Stars in a Royal Athletic Park match Monday.

New Westminster's withdrawal almost resulted in a second Victoria team making the PCSL classroom.

Hourigan's Kickers, it was understood, were suggested as possible replacements for the Royals. Wright, who enjoyed such a brilliant season with United last year, is now employed by a mainland television station and will commute for the balance of the season.

North Shore has rejected Bobby Smith's application for a transfer to Columbus. A full schedule of Victoria and District League games Sunday. The "who, where and when" is detailed in the Sports Menu on Page 8.

LIONS' FRONT OFFICE PENALIZES NIGHT OWLS

VANCOUVER (CP)—General manager Herb Capozzi said Thursday "suitable action" has been taken against two players believed involved in an early-morning ruckus Wednesday.

He declined to elaborate, but it was understood that fines were levied on Lonnie Dennis and Mike Martin for breaking training rules by being out too late.

Meanwhile, police said there were no developments in their investigation of the 3 a.m. fracas in which a city man said he was jostled.

HOWELL TO PLAY

Healthy Bombers Waiting for Lions

Canadian champion Winnipeg Blue Bombers have turned into the home stretch of the 1962 Western Football Conference season, full of vim and vigor.

Bombers lead the five-team conference by three points with two games in hand over second-placed Calgary Stampeders and have a full team ready for action.

Saturday night they go against visiting British Columbia Lions, who are working on a two-game win streak, their longest since joining the conference in 1954.

The first win was over Blue Bombers 27-22 Sept. 24 and the second over injury-riddled Edmonton Eskimos 40-24 Monday.

SHEPARD BACK

Bombers will have fullback Charlie Shepard back in action after a month on the team's injured reserve list with a chronic pinched nerve in the neck as well as 1961 lineman of the year tackle Frank Rigney, out for several weeks with a knee injury.

To make room for Shepard, Bombers were forced to waive end Bob Deegan to Montreal Alouettes for $350.

Lions will be going without flanker Mack Burton, out for the season with a Achilles tendon torn in the Edmonton game Monday, but are expected to make use of halfback Ron Howell, picked up from Hamilton Tiger Cats this week for Gary Schneider.

Lions coach Dave Skrein says he is "very impressed" with Howell and probably will use him in a defensive half position.

It is also expected they will unveil centre and linebacker Gary Schwertfeger of Montana State.

Tars, Soldiers Clash in Final

It was the Navy against the Army at HMCS Naden field this afternoon in the final round of the first national tri-service struggle for the Peakies trophy.

Clashing in the title game of the three-day soccer tourney were Esquimalt's RCN squad and the PPCLI team from Edmonton.

Both finalists ran into tough struggles in Friday's semifinal matches. Esquimalt, getting two goals from Bobby Marsden and one from Jim Slade, carved out a 3-1 victory over the Sixth Squadron Submariners from Halifax. The Pats made it to the final with a 2-1 conquest of the Winnipeg RCAF club.

Also scheduled today was the consolation final between the Camp Borden, Ont., army

Mrs. Coventry Wins Cup Event

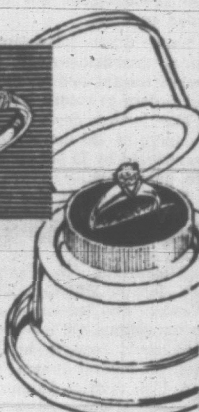

Mrs. V. Coventry won the Lansdowne Cup event at Uplands Golf Club with Mrs. F. G. Usher in the runner-up position.

Consolation title went to Mrs. R. L. Styles with Mrs. L. H. Noble in second place.

Tourney medalist, with a net 70, was Mrs. D. K. Austin.

Meredith Eats in Campus Cafe

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—Another barrier toppled when Negro James H. Meredith ate his first meal in the University of Mississippi cafeteria here Thursday night.

A white student sat with Meredith and chatted with him for several minutes.

It was the first known instance of social contact between Meredith and another member of the otherwise all-white student body.

Four girls at a nearby table left. Others stared silently at him. When Meredith left, a small crowd outside jeered and cursed.

Earlier, Meredith went to the university library. He checked a file, was shown several rooms and checked out a book.

On his way to the library, marshals waved him into a car after a pretty co-ed said: "Why doesn't somebody kill him?"

The weekend was expected to be quiet in Oxford, after the defence department ordered the homecoming football game between Mississippi and Houston switched to Jackson, about 170 miles south. Authorities feared the 30,000 expected fans might have caused new incidents at Oxford.

CALM RETURNS

An indication that calm had returned to the 114-year-old university, scene of last Sunday's riots and two killings resulting from Meredith's enrolment, was the reduction of the military force on hand.

Some 3,500 Mississippi national guardsmen will be released tonight and another 4,500 get orders to return home.

The justice department said its force of 450 marshals would be reduced by 75 per cent within the next week.

The department also revealed a total of 166 marshals were wounded during last Sunday's riots.

Meanwhile, in Springfield, Mo., former Maj.-Gen. Edwin A. Walker, who led some students in the rioting, got a court ruling that could lead to his release from a federal prison.

A U.S. district judge ordered the federal government to show cause why Walker should not be released on bail.

Walker is charged with inciting insurrection and seditious conspiracy.

Mr. Justice H. Alan Maclean ruled correctly that a Canadian court cannot be used by a "foreign power" (the United States) to collect unpaid taxes incurred by a U.S. citizen in Vancouver, lawyer Jack Giles argued in B.C. Appeal Court Thursday.

The court reserved judgment on an appeal against the ruling of Mr. Justice Maclean brought by the U.S. government.

Mr. Giles appeared for Mrs. Esperanza Harden of California.

The U.S. government is attempting to attach for taxes substantial Vancouver real estate holdings belonging to Mrs. Harden. It maintains that Mr. Justice Maclean's denial of the right to use a Canadian court for this purpose was in error.

Mr. Justice C. H. O'Halloran, who presided, said he and his colleagues, Mr. Justice H. W. Davey and Mr. Justice F. A. Sheppard, would give careful consideration to the case, which is the first of its kind ever heard in Canada.

Mr. Giles said the action in B.C. Supreme Court was based on a judgment of the United States district court of the southern district of California, dated March 10, 1961, for the amount of $609,539 in U.S. currency.

He stated that Mrs. Harden's husband, Frederick M. Harden, died in Vancouver on or about May 1, 1959. Probate of his will was granted out of the Vancouver Registry for the Supreme Court of British Columbia, and Mrs. Harden was entitled to share in the will.

On June 10, 1957, the U.S. government started an action against Mrs. Harden for the collection of internal revenue taxes alleged to be owing—$264,117 for 1945 and $603,844 for 1946.

The defence was that her liability for 1945 had already, in an action which she brought in 1951, been determined at the amount of $96,040.

J. G. Alley and W. J. Wright appeared for the U.S. government during the two-day hearing.

OTTAWA (CP)—The public may never know what James E. Coyne tells the royal commission on banking and finance.

The former governor of the Bank of Canada is scheduled to appear before Ontario Chief Justice Dana Porter and his six fellow commissioners later this month.

But it was learned Wednesday that the hearing—unlike others by the commission—will probably be behind closed doors. And it appears unlikely that a transcript of evidence will be made public.

The same arrangement will apply to Graham Towers, who preceded Mr. Coyne as Canada's central banker. Neither will submit written briefs.

Dates for their appearances are not yet known. A list of witnesses for the commission's Oct. 16-Nov. 1 sittings in Ottawa is expected to be published next week.

Public hearings by royal commissions are a matter of tradition—not law, officials said. There was ample precedent for in-camera sittings.

USE DISCRETION

The commissioners were authorized by the government in the first place to "adopt such procedures and methods as they may from time to time deem expedient for the proper conduct of the inquiry."

They are understood to feel that the testimony of Messrs. Coyne and Towers will be far more valuable if delivered in private.

Traditionally, central bankers have little direct contact with the public.

One of the criticisms that led to the parliamentary furor surrounding Mr. Coyne's departure as governor last year was over his public speeches—as much that he made them at all, as what he said.

He has not spoken publicly since his epic defence of his policies before the Senate committee which, with its Liberal majority, rejected the government's bid to have Parliament fire him. Mr. Coyne now is employed in Toronto for a Winnipeg law firm.

Mr. Towers, president of an insurance company, has delivered only one or two public speeches since he stepped down as governor in 1956, after holding that post since the central bank's inception in 1935.

'ONLY WAY TO MAKE COLUMBIA PAY'

$500 Million Lump Sum Suggested for Power Sale

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Make the Americans pay $500 million for Canada-U.S. Columbia River Treaty power—or scrap the treaty.

That advice was given the government Thursday by fresh-man British Columbia MP John Davis (Liberal—Coast-Capilano).

He told the Commons the sale to the U.S. of Canada's share of downstream power benefits for about $500 million in a lump sum was the only way Canada could make the huge development pay.

"I submit that the only conceivable way in which we Canadians can rescue this treaty in anything like its present form is to sell our share of the downstream benefit energy to the United States," he said.

"We must sell it or forget the treaty, and we must sell it for a much higher price than the United States is having to put up for its own share of the power."

In making his statement the MP was putting himself squarely behind B.C. Premier Bennett, who wants to sell all of Canada's share of downstream power benefits in the U.S., rather than return them to Canada.

(In elaborating later outside the House Mr. Davis said he believed he was expressing Liberal party policy on the issue; the Conservative government also appears to be coming around to Bennett's view.)

Mr. Davis said he agreed with the federal government's new policy of large-scale, long-term exports of Canadian power, Canada, he said, should not be concerned about running out of energy.

But he termed the Columbia treaty, as interpreted by the present government, "nothing short of a fiasco."

"It is inconceivable that the government of this country should enter into any agreement, let alone a comprehensive treaty, with another country to last at least 50 years, which failed to procure any demonstrable advantage to the people of Canada," said Mr. Davis, an economist and former research director of the B.C. Electric.

Mr. Davis said it would be a "master stroke" if Canada could get the U.S. to pay for this downstream power in a lump sum of $500 million, rather than at a rate of some $30 million per year.

"This figure would give us a profit," he said. "It will give us a capital sum over and above the $350 or $400 million we will have to put up in order to build these immense dams."

GOLF SCHOOL

By SAM SNEAD

Many times, you'll need a shot with lots of backspin which will hit a green and grab quickly, coming to a quick stop.

To put much backspin on a golf ball, use a lofted club and strike the rear of the ball just before your club reaches the bottom of the downswing. Keep your eyes on the back of the ball, as illustrated, and "spank" the ball on the downswing.

Swing through this shot, taking a divot after contacting the ball. The scoring on the face of the iron will apply the backspin to the ball if your contact with the ball is correct. Then, when the ball hits the green's surface, it will grab and hold quickly as the backspin takes effect.

Esquimalt's Hockey Clubs Down to Work

Baseball, football and horse racing may be in full swing but hockey is coming fast.

A whole spate of practice sessions at Esquimalt Sports Centre on the weekend foretells the advent of the puck pastime.

Esquimalt Junior Bruins start the puck rolling in a 4:30 to 6 p.m. workout Sunday. Even before they leave Esquimalt Pontiacs will glide onto the ice and work until 7:30 p.m.

Joe Iannarelli, coach of both clubs, seeks players. Juniors must be under 21 years but age is no barrier for prospective Pontiacs.

Victoria College Vikings take to the surface Monday between 8 and 10 a.m. Navy moves in from 4:30 to 6 p.m. and Army takes its turn Tuesday from 1 to 3 p.m.

First annual all-star game of the Esquimalt Hockey League will be played at the Sports Centre Friday, Oct. 12. VC Vikings, league champions in 1961-62 will meet EHL All-Stars.

HUNTER SAFETY WEEK

Most Accidents Due To Careless Habits

At least 95 per cent of all hunting accidents are caused by human carelessness, Bill Ward of the fish and game branch of the department of recreation and conservation told the Victoria Rotary Club.

Mr. Ward appeared at the club's Thursday luncheon in conjunction with Hunter Safety Week.

Hunting ranks 17th behind sports such as skiing, horseback riding and football in accidental deaths, he said.

"Hunting accidents are very dramatic," Mr. Ward said. "Two men are tramping through the bush, there is a shot and one falls dead."

Safety campaigns such as the current "Red Cap Week" and hunter education have helped B.C. to be recognized as an area which "has one of the lowest accident rates in all of North America."

Red caps (they are actually fluorescent blaze orange) are the emblem for Hunter Safety Week. The caps are on sale at most sporting goods stores.

Clothing of the same material can also be purchased.

Hunting fatalities in B.C. have dropped from 9.3 per 10,000 in 1935 to 3.4 in 1961.

ROYAL COMMISSION HEARING

Coyne Testimony Secret

OTTAWA (CP)—The public may never know what James E. Coyne tells the royal commission on banking and finance.

The former governor of the Bank of Canada is scheduled to appear before Ontario Chief Justice Dana Porter and his six fellow commissioners later this month.

But it was learned Wednesday that the hearing—unlike others by the commission—will probably be behind closed doors. And it appears unlikely that a transcript of evidence will be made public.

The same arrangement will apply to Graham Towers, who preceded Mr. Coyne as Canada's central banker. Neither will submit written briefs.

Dates for their appearances are not yet known. A list of witnesses for the commission's Oct. 16-Nov. 1 sittings in Ottawa is expected to be published next week.

Public hearings by royal commissions are a matter of tradition—not law, officials said. There was ample precedent for in-camera sittings.

USE DISCRETION

The commissioners were authorized by the government in the first place to "adopt such procedures and methods as they may from time to time deem expedient for the proper conduct of the inquiry."

They are understood to feel that the testimony of Messrs. Coyne and Towers will be far more valuable if delivered in private.

Traditionally, central bankers have little direct contact with the public.

One of the criticisms that led to the parliamentary furor surrounding Mr. Coyne's departure as governor last year was over his public speeches—as much that he made them at all, as what he said.

He has not spoken publicly since his epic defence of his policies before the Senate committee which, with its Liberal majority, rejected the government's bid to have Parliament fire him. Mr. Coyne now is employed in Toronto for a Winnipeg law firm.

Mr. Towers, president of an insurance company, has delivered only one or two public speeches since he stepped down as governor in 1956, after holding that post since the central bank's inception in 1935.

Crooked Dice Law Asked

Times News Service

VANCOUVER—A County Court judge Thursday acquitted three men on charges of defrauding a Calgary contractor of $17,000 in a dice game.

But he suggested manufacture and sale of crooked dice be banned by law.

"It is regrettable that loaded and fixed dice are sold," said Judge Arthur Remnant. "I don't know if they are sold in Canada, but if so, there should be some law to prevent their sale and manufacture."

LIFE SENTENCE

VANCOUVER—Retired longshoreman John Devlin, 67, was found guilty Thursday of non-capital murder and sentenced to life imprisonment in the stabbing death of a Vancouver woman.

The jury brought in a recommendation for mercy. The victim, Mrs. Gail Mildred Coppin, lived in the same house with Devlin.

Witnesses said Devlin freely admitted killing the woman during an argument and Devlin said "Yes, I think so" when asked during the trial if he had done it.

REPLACING LINE

TRAIL—Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company has started construction on a new high voltage line across Kootenay Lake to replace a similar line destroyed by terrorists' bombs last March 6.

A company spokesman said Thursday the first of three two-mile cables will be strung early next week.

WOULD CHANGE ACT

VANCOUVER—A change in the Workmen's Compensation Act requiring a public hearing before any employer can be ordered to provide any industrial first aid was proposed Thursday by the Petroleum Accident Prevention Association of B.C.

The proposal was made in a brief to a royal commission inquiring into the Act.

LINEMAN KILLED

FORT ST. JOHN—An electrician rode to his death strapped to a falling power pole at nearby Taylor Wednesday.

Starling was defended by Victoria lawyer David Hummel who produced witnesses to prove that he did not possess a dark suit such as he was alleged to have worn when cashing a cheque at the Oakcrest market.

Mrs. Starling said her husband had never owned a black and yellow car such as was seen outside the market at the time the cheque was cashed.

Crown Prosecutor William R. McIntyre told the jury that if they had any doubts as to whether Starling was seen in the store on the date in question they were entitled to acquit him.

Police said Robert Bartindale, 32, of Outlook, Sask., was repairing hydro lines at the top of a wooden power pole when it collapsed, crushing him to the ground and crushing him. The pole was rotten at the base, police said.

DISPUTE SETTLED

VANCOUVER—A dispute between the Electrical Workers' Union and electrical contractors was settled Wednesday. The contractors agreed to accept a proposal by deputy labor minister W. H. Sands, calling for a 17-cent hourly pay increase retroactive to Sept. 1, 1962, and a further 10-cent increase from April 1. The union has accepted the settlement.

Starling was defended by Victoria lawyer David Hummel who produced witnesses to prove that he did not possess a dark suit such as he was alleged to have worn when cashing a cheque at the Oakcrest market.

Lawyer's Insurance Awarded to Widow

VANCOUVER (CP)—An $11,000 insurance policy was awarded by the British Columbia Supreme Court Thursday to the widow of a Vancouver lawyer who killed himself.

Edward Colston Rogers, 34, committed suicide last year after his wife was convicted of keeping a common bawdy house.

Mr. Justice J. G. Rutan ruled that the marriage of Rogers and Hazel Dawn Adams in July, 1961, was valid; that a document naming her beneficiary—discovered when Rogers' body was found in a Victoria hotel in October, 1961—was lawful, and that Rogers was mentally competent when he made her beneficiary instead of his parents.

Rogers took poison a few hours after defending his wife unsuccessfully on the bawdy house charge. She was later given a suspended sentence.

In a 15-page judgment, Mr. Justice Rutan reviewed what he described as "a very stormy life" the couple had together.

Early in October, 1961, when Rogers ripped up all his wife's dresses and threatened to kill her, she called police. He retaliated, said the judge, by reporting her as a fugitive from justice, and she was taken to Victoria to answer the charge of keeping a bawdy house.

Rogers was then seized with remorse and did his best to get his wife "free on bail" and to defend her.

Fisherman's Death Laid To Hunter

VERNON (CP)—RCMP here said Wednesday night they believe a hunter was responsible for the shooting death of fisherman Allan Brook Andrews, 51.

Andrews was shot and killed by a small-calibre bullet while he stood fishing on the shore of Deep Lake.

The body was located Wednesday after the victim's wife reported him missing.

Officers said a .22-calibre rifle had been reported stolen from a ranch in the area but they said they don't believe there is a link between the weapon and the slaying.

RCMP said they are assuming the shooting was an accident.

New Book on W. Coast An All-B.C. Product

First definitive history of Vancouver Island's west coast, a 344-page volume by Major George Nicholson, is now on sale in Victoria.

Profusely illustrated, the book traces the west coast record from 1782 to the present. Its content ranges from records of Russian sea otter hunters and Boston traders to accounts of episodes witnessed or shared by the writer during his 35 years in the region.

B.C. PRODUCT The handsome book is a British Columbia product throughout. Written in Victoria where Major Nicholson makes his home at 2519 Vancouver Street, it was printed by Morris Printing Co. Ltd. In its financing, Major Nicholson was aided by friends of his west coast years.

"The list includes lumbermen, miners and halibut fishermen," Major Nicholson said, "and not one of them asked for so much as a receipt."

NEW ZEALANDER Born in New Zealand, the author came to British Columbia in 1910. He has been soldier, postmaster, mining recorder, justice of the peace, marriage commissioner, magistrate and coroner.

Major Nicholson served in both world wars, winning the Military Cross in the first. In 1935 he was awarded the George V Silver Jubilee Medal.

"Vancouver Island's West Coast, 1762-1962" is being distributed, at $10 a copy, by the author.

MONTE ROBERTS

This man ups to me and he says: "Isn't it a disgrace?" So I ups to him and I says: "Positively no doubt, most everything is a disgrace, but which disgrace are you speaking about to whom?"

So this man comes back and he says: "The disgrace to which I refer, sir, was the occurrence of Wednesday afternoon. Which it happened on the TV screen."

And now I know of which he is talking about (to whom) so I says to him: "Oh, you mean how the Dodgers tripped coming out of the dugout and fell flat-on their press clippings, thus enabling the Giants to enter the World Series?"

"Why," I says to this man, "this may be a disgrace but it is nothing new, it goes on all the time—in Brooklyn, in Los Angeles, and will no doubt occur again when the franchise is moved to Agassiz, in an attempt to cash in on the potential Doughbor season ticket buyers."

Then this man ups to me again, and he says: "Ah-hah. That's just it. That's the disgrace of Wednesday afternoon. When our dear cousins to the south," he says, "namely, the U.S. Americans, are devoting their scientific and financial might to taking another step toward being first on the moon, what were the majority of the television viewers viewing?"

"Why, they were watching Moon-on-first," I says to this man. "What else?"

"You are just as bad as the U.S. Americans," says this man. "You have no sense of proportion. You and the U.S. Americans are watching to see who wins an idiotic baseball pennant race, while Russia is winning the race to the moon."

"Yeah," I says to this man, "You may be right, but in that crazy-mixed-up top half of the ninth, if only Alston had..."

But this man had had enough of me. Crying "Disgrace, disgrace," he left in a 1963 model High Dudgeon.

On thinking it over, perhaps he has a point about the U.S. Americans having no sense of proportion.

Ald. A. W. Toone Thursday said he will ask city council to establish a larger planning staff to undertake a comprehensive study of downtown development needs.

"The cost of a survey of this kind would primarily consist of providing additional help—hiring additional hands for the planning department," he said.

He said present planning work has been launched by council on a piecemeal basis. He said a master study should be undertaken incorporating current surveys on downtown redevelopment, access routes, civic precinct and traffic control throughout the commercial core.

Trial of Stanley John Bullivant on a charge of forging and cashing five cheques totalling $478.60 continued before a 12-man jury in B.C. Assize Court today.

MacPowell Given Permission To Charge IWA

The B.C. Labor Relations Board said today it has granted permission to MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. to prosecute an International Woodworkers of America leader and union members who took part in a work stoppage at Port Alberni last month.

The board order gives the company permission to prosecute Local 185 president Walter Allan, the local itself and the boom men involved for taking part in an illegal walk-out.

A MacMillan, Bloedel spokesman said the company will now consider the procedure to be used in prosecution and added that while the company could have pressed a suit for damages against the union and men it will prosecute instead and seek a conviction "as a matter of record."

The board still considers an IWA counter-application charging the company with an illegal lockout to decide whether or not it was "frivolous" under the Labor Act.

He pointed out that last spring the four municipalities had agreed on the joint sharing of costs and that the city had undertaken to pay 43.25 per cent of the estimated $100,000 project.

A tender call was necessary now in order to obtain federal financial assistance—which could reduce the overall cost—under the winter works program.

"I think we acted quite properly," he told committee. "There had been a formal agreement by all four municipalities on financing and our share is 43.25 per cent."

IT'S URGENT

"Another month's delay by intermunicipal committee could have meant we would not get the building up as a winter work project. This is an urgent matter and should be proceeded with quickly."

He said with winter work aid and payment to the city of $15,000 for the site behind the health and welfare building, the city's actual cash outlay might be held to about $30,000.

City finance committee, which had been asked by council to choose the best method of raising the city share, recommended borrowing if necessary to undertake the project this December.

OVERLOOKED

Meanwhile, Esquimalt Reeve Wurtle told The Times that Ald. Griffin apparently had overlooked decisions by the four municipalities last May to share the cost of the detention home on an agreed joint basis.

He said Esquimalt council had approved its 9.133 per cent share and had agreed to provide half the amount this year.

Discussions under the leadership of Joseph Warner of Seattle will be held Saturday and Sunday in conjunction with the youth work done by the Y's Mens' clubs.

EAT THOSE WORDS

Fast Action On Home Bids 'Money-Saver'

By JOHN MIKA

Ald. Michael Griffin, who called intermunicipal committee members "blockheads," may have to eat his words.

Mayor R. B. Wilson and Reeve A. C. Wurtle today defended the committee's action in calling for tenders for construction of a new juvenile detention home.

A non-member, Ald. Griffin had issued a press statement vehemently attacking the committee's decision and accusing it of moving too quickly because, he claimed, the financing had not been arranged. He suggested contractors should not bid on the project because it was "nebulous."

PROPER MOVE

Mayor Wilson, chairman of intermunicipal committee, told city finance committee that the tender call was both proper and necessary.

He pointed out that last spring the four municipalities had agreed on the joint sharing of costs and that the city had undertaken to pay 43.25 per cent of the estimated $100,000 project.

SURVEY SHOWS 'COST' OF AUSTERITY

Meats Spearhead Price Advance

By DESMOND BILL

The federal government's austerity program has increased the price of consumer goods from soup to nuts.

A Times survey shows this is literally true.

Imported soup, which cost $1.20 before devaluation and the surcharge now costs $1.34, according to federal customs inspectors.

And huts have gone up about 15 per cent as a result of the surcharge and devaluation.

But the most startling increase since June 24, when the austerity program was introduced, has been the price of meats. A survey of food markets in Victoria show prices of some cuts have gone up as much as one-third.

HIGHER U.S. DEMAND

It appears the increase in beef prices is principally caused by devaluation which has made Canadian beef available at attractive prices to U.S. buyers. The resulting increased U.S. demand has caused a general price increase in prairie stockyards.

Porterhouse steak, which sold for 98 cents a pound in late June, was being retailed in Victoria at $1.28 a pound on Thursday.

SALES STEADY

Despite the increases there has been no slackening in meat sales, according to meat store managers.

One manager said a few housewives complained about the high prices at first, "but now they don't even remember what the price used to be."

The full effect of the price increase caused by austerity has still not been felt in city stores. Many merchants are still operating on stocks bought before June 24.

30% INCREASE

But new merchandise now arriving for pre-Christmas selling is generally going on sale at higher prices. An example is cameras which have generally advanced about 20 per cent in retail price.

City businessmen are concerned at the harm that austerity may do to their tourist business next year. Unless the surcharge is removed there are many items which U.S. tourists will be able to buy at home cheaper than they can here, say the merchants.

Devaluation eventually will affect even Canadian-made goods, according to retailers.

They say that Canadian goods which use imported parts will increase in price to absorb the added cost of these components.

In an attempt to offset increases, some large department stores are taking a reduced mark-up on some lines.

Generally, however, all increases appear to have been passed on to consumers.

VICTORIA, B.C., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1962—PAGE 13

Ship Subsidies Total $7 Million

City Yards To Get $5 Million

More than $7,000,000 in federal subsidies for west coast shipyards has been approved by the Canadian Maritime Commission, it was announced in Ottawa today.

Of this total, almost $5,000,000 will come to Victoria, including $4,200,000 for B.C. Toll Highways and Bridges Authorities ferries covering the Mv Victoria and two new ferries being built at Victoria Machinery Depot Ltd.

The remaining subsidy funds coming to Victoria, about $500,000, will go to Yarrow's Ltd. for two large barges built for Island Tug and Barge Ltd. as well as some smaller barges.

PARTIAL PAYMENT

Harold Husband, president of VMD, said today that the federal government had already made partial payment of ferry subsidies, which VMD had turned over to the provincial government.

Also qualifying is a third B.C. government ferry being built by Burrard Drydock Co. Ltd. in Vancouver as well as other Vancouver shipbuilding projects.

The subsidy, announced by the federal government in May of 1961, amounts to 40 per cent of the cost of approved projects.

Attorney General Robert Bonner, acting premier, said he was "delighted" to hear the subsidy payments had been approved.

"We're always glad to receive money from Ottawa," he declared.

Shoulder Shrug Brings Comment From Magistrate

A man who shrugged his shoulders over an accident that caused $900 damage, received a scolding from Magistrate J. A. Evers in Saanich police court Thursday.

Alejandro Marcota of Ganges, fined $15 for failing to yield the right of way, made the gesture when asked by the magistrate if he had anything to say.

"You shrug your shoulders over an accident that caused $900 damage... It's people like you who put up the cost of motor insurance... you don't look where you're going," said the magistrate.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Vivian G. Robert, 2670 Queenswood Drive, $35 for careless driving;

Frank T. Rhode, 225 Skinner Street, $20 for failing to give right-of-way to pedestrian;

Arthur Scammell, Courtenay, $25 for pulling away from a curb when it was unsafe;

Joseph F. McDougall, 911 Cloverdale, $25, over 30 miles per hour.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. How many deer can a man have in his possession at one time? C. J. E.

A. Game Management Area totals differ from area to area. Generally three deer is the limit. Sportsmen should consult the regulations in the area in which they are hunting to see what type of deer can be taken.

On Vancouver Island the limit is three—two of which may be antlers. There is no bag limit on the Queen Charlotte Islands.

Q. When did Halley's Comet make its last appearance? J. W. P.

A. On May 18, 1910, it is due to return in 1986.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor, Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. No suit is allowed to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

High-Rise Horticulture

Even Gracie Fields' "biggest aspidistra in the world" would have to extend itself in a contest with these two examples of Victoria's sturdier flora. Sunflower at left, admired by Mrs. Ron Smith, 3680 Savanah, towers 12 feet high, was coaxed to that altitude by Mrs. Smith's son, Brian, 14. In picture above Mrs. S. T. Beno, 3409 Veteran Ave., is overpowered by height of 18-foot bunch of pampas grass. Three years old, it brightens its little corner with no less than 56 plumes. (Times photos.)

FAST-PACED DISPLAY

4,000 New Friends Won by Highlanders

By ARTHUR MAYSE

With bugle and drum, post-horn and trombone, big shiny tuba and little pearwood piccolo, massed bands of two famed Scottish regiments won a roaring ovation from an audience of 4,000 in Memorial Arena Thursday evening.

There were pipers about too—enough of them, in fact, to "rescue" the redcoats at the climax of a musical Battle of Balaclava which thrilled a predominantly Caledonian crowd.

Boots soundless on sawdust laid over the arena ice, 93 bandsmen of The Royal Scots Greys and The Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders marched in at 8:35 behind their drum and pipe majors. For the next two and a quarter hours, in combination or as separate units, they offered Victoria a swift-paced display of martial sound and color.

Guardsmen wore the scarlet tunics and white crossbelts of the old army, topped by tall black busbies with red cockades. Cavalry once, they marched with spurs twinkling on their heels.

The Highlanders, renowned as the "thin red line" that threw back the Russians in the Crimea, flaunted their traditional Black Watch and Royal Stuart tartans. Some wore bonnets, others bearskin hats with the white cockade which was Bonnie Prince Charlie's battle gauge.

A receptive audience that welcomed even such non-Scott numbers as "Oklahoma!" and "Men of Harlech" gave its loudest acclaim to the bandsmen's finale, "Scotland the Brave," in which they demonstrated in a noteworthy pageant of music and precision marching how the two regiments won their proudest battle honors.

Building up impressively from the birdsong of early morning to a clash of cavalry squadrons and infantry fusillades under a wild play of spotlights, the Balaclava episode was marked by telling minor effects.

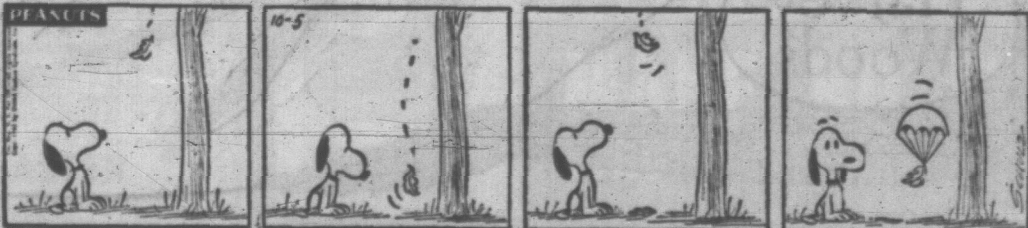

Among these were the jingle of bells on Cossack bridles, and a sinister interpretation by brasses and woodwinds of "Cavalry of the Steppes."

The scene was a buildup for the kilties, who quick-marched in to complete a dramatic spectacle.

An intriguing musical side-light was the use of post-horns in concert and solo fanfares. These sweet-toned instruments are controlled entirely by mouth.

Spirited Highland dancing was part of the one-night show, which is produced by Lieut.-Col. Douglas A. Pope, OBE, ARCM, senior director of music for the British Army.

The bands were brought to Victoria in the course of a North American tour by Columbia Festivals, Inc.

DEAR ABBY ...

Who's Right?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: For 10 years I have been trying to convince my wife that it is her duty to get up in the morning and prepare breakfast for me. She doesn't have to go to work, so if she went back to bed afterwards it would be all right with me. She tells me that I am behind-the-times and that 88% of the wives sleep in the morning and their husbands either get their own breakfast or go out and buy it somewhere. Can you tell me if this is correct? I would like to know approximately how many wives in our country still get up in the morning to prepare a decent breakfast for their families?

NO BREAKFAST
DEAR NO: Your wife must have "dreamed" those statistics. I am willing to bet that at least 75% of our wives have the coffee perking at 7:30 a.m. How about it, girls?

DEAR ABBY: A teacher in our school has started the "honor system." During tests she leaves the room and the students are on their "honor." I do not cheat, but several of the others do. They look up the answers and copy them straight out of the book. Consequently, they make better grades than I do. What is your opinion of our "honor system?"

DEAR HONEST: I think the teacher has the honor and the kids have the system. Tell your teacher to take off the rose-colored glasses. The system is not working.

DEAR ABBY: My husband works the second shift, which means he leaves home at 2:30 in the afternoon and comes home after midnight. By the time he wakes up in the morning, the children are gone to school. He doesn't even know he has a family. I have all the decisions to make and all the discipline problems. I am fed up with the full responsibility. Don't tell me he is earning a living for "his family." He has plenty of seniority where he works and could get the first shift by asking for it. What do you think I should do?

FED UP TO HERE
DEAR FED UP: I think you should tell your husband what you have told me. Unless you have already told him so many times that he thinks you're kidding.

DEAR ABBY: I was very disappointed in the poor judgment you showed in publishing the letter signed LIED ABOUT. It was from a 17-year-old complaining because a friend went to confession and made up horrid lies involving him (or her). Anyone who knows anything about the Catholic religion knows that no names are mentioned in confession, and if anyone attempts to involve a third party by name, he is stopped immediately by the priest and is reprimanded. Please, Abby, print my letter to correct an unjust misconception.

Slim and Round Hips

A long-time favorite for the boat and the backyard, the campus and the ski slope, pants are now making new conquests on the dark side of 6 p.m. where they are leading the fashion scene for informal at-home entertaining. But whether they appear at a midnight supper or a mid-day cookout, their success and acceptance is completely dependent on each of these important ingredients—cut, simplicity, fit and fabric. The first two are well established by Emilio Pucci, the internationally famous designer of this sensational pants wardrobe. Streamlined fit is assured by our expert pattern sizing which includes measurements for the figure with slim hips or round hips. Excluding formal affairs, the time and the place for wearing this round-the-clock fashion is dictated only by your choice of fabric which can be as casual as denim or as elegant as satin.

No. 601—The comfortable one-piece jumpsuit, polished with saucy bows or diamond appliques (not shown), is traced to the body from neck to knee then split to the ankle in a most provocative manner.

No. 602—Double tiers of shaped bands girdle the waist and garter the knee of snug young pants that are spiced with Spanish flavor.

No. 603—High-spirited hipsters, circled low on the waist, are precisely shaped to your fun-filled leisure hours. Buttoned flaps hide a handy pair of change pockets.

From these corresponding body measurements select the size best for you. Our sizing is comparable to that used for better ready-to-wear.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

She's Worried About Her

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

(The Question Box)

Q. "I am 11 years old and am starting the seventh grade this fall. All my friends say I am skinny, but my family says I am just little. Could you give me some exercises for developing my bust and hips? My measurements are bust 29 inches, waist 23 and hips 28½. I still have a baby stomach which I try to hold in."

A. Don't worry about the bustline. Nature will give you those curves a bit later on and also will slim down the tummy. However, you are wise to make an effort to hold your abdomen in and to be interested in posture. This and Father Time will assure you a lovely figure later on.

You might take some abdominal exercises to help you hold the tummy in. If you or any of my readers would like to have those I have used in my classes with great success, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 2. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Q. "A reader wants to know if there is any treatment for a person who is not alert and who is tired and depressed. She is just out of high school and has an average I.Q. People do not think she hears what they say when they talk to her. She wants to change and says that she will take any test to help her improve."

A. The fact this girl realizes that she is not as she should be and wants to be is certainly a very hopeful sign. She should see her family doctor for a complete physical check-up. Many physical conditions which can be remedied, can cause a condition. She also should develop some interests, join young people in church groups and maybe join some class at the YWCA. Perhaps a class in some handicraft would be rewarding. I have the feeling that this young lady is living too much within herself and does not have enough companionship with those her own age.

Q. "Please tell me what you think of my figure. I am 13 years old and weigh 107 pounds. I am 5 feet, 3 inches tall. My bust measures 33 inches, waist 24 and hips 36."

A. I think you have a very nice figure for your age. You early teen-agers must give Nature a little time to fill out the bustline. When yours is a bit fuller, your measurements will be very good.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Carve Thanksgiving Bird
With Care—Big Or Small

By PENNY SAVER

"How many turkeys would it take to feed all the people of Victoria?" Penny asked herself as a truckload of large fresh turkeys pulled up in front of her. Secondly, how many people does it take to eat a whole turkey?

Penny couldn't find the answers to these questions but she did find turkeys for small and large families. For the large family the fresh turkeys arriving in the truck are selling at 55 cents a pound.

In another store there are small turkeys averaging four to six pounds and they sell at 59 cents a pound. These young turkeys can be bought fresh or frozen. There was one priced at $3.40 which was larger than a chicken selling at $3.80.

Whether your Thanksgiving turkey is large or small carve your festive bird with care.

Place the well-browned bird on a platter that is large enough and have an extra platter or plate for cut meat. The turkey should be breast up with the legs at the carver's right.

Anchor the bird by inserting carving fork halfway along the breast on the far side of the bird. Remove whole leg from near side of the bird by holding the drumstick and cutting through the skin and the joint.

If you are serving a large bird, slice the meat from the drumstick by holding it upright and cut downwards. Slice the thigh meat by holding it firmly with a fork and slice meat parallel to the bone.

To remove the wing cut about an inch above the wing and cut at an angle through the joint.

Slice the white meat by carving from the top down making thin slices the full length of the breast.

Don't forget to serve the stuffing which you can reach from an opening cut into the side of the turkey where the leg has been removed.

Whether you are serving a Thanksgiving dinner for four or 14 phone Penny, at 382-3131 for the right size turkey.

SEW SIMPLE WITH Eunice Farmer

You Can Insert Bias Band In Any Basic Type Pattern

"Dear Eunice:

"I was attracted to a beautiful simple dress that was made on a diagonal cut, using two colors. A third color was used in the form of a bias band covering the seam of the dress where the two colors joined. I have searched the pattern books and can't find a pattern like this. Would this be too difficult for me to try to do and would you please help me with any cutting instructions?"—Mrs. C. G. W.

Dear Mrs. C. G. W.: I would begin with a perfectly plain basic type pattern which can be found in all pattern books. First, lay the pattern on a large folded piece of newspaper as you would with your fabric, and cut a new paper pattern which will be the full width of your dress instead of just half the width.

Using your yardstick, carefully mark a line where you wish the diagonal line to appear. If you want a diagonal line in the back, be sure the seams will end at the same point of your skirt. Mark your paper pattern with the words Right Side, so you will know that the pattern and the fabric must both be cut on the "right side." Your fabric will NOT be cut double.

Cut your new paper pattern on the diagonal line and place it on your fabric, leaving a seam allowance on EACH of the diagonal sections.

The third color, if desired, is achieved by making a bias tubing and pressing it flat, then hand-tacking it to your dress just over the seamline. Grosgrain ribbon could be used instead of a bias tubing.

This can certainly be a novel and unusual dress and will draw lots of attention to your sewing. Somehow or other most people would never imagine you had made a garment yourself if you vary from the pattern and add your own little creative ideas because they don't think we are smart enough for that, but that's the fun of sewing.

Mrs. Frances Morrison

Marks 98th Birthday

Ninety-eight years of full living were reached today by Mrs. Frances Morrison when she celebrated her birthday at Rose Manor where she and her younger sister, Mrs. Patty Haslam now live.

Chances are that when the two sisters are seen quietly chatting together it's not tating or croquet that fills their thoughts. Rather, it could be lighthouses, mills and trips by Indian canoe—for all have had their place in their lives.

Mrs. Morrison's first glimpse of Victoria was from the deck of a sailing vessel in the early 1870s when she arrived from San Francisco with her family.

She was born in County Cork, Ireland, one of the four children of Mr. and Mrs. Emmanuel Cox, who first emigrated to the United States, and then to Canada, "the land of promise" for his young family.

Mrs. Morrison's early years were spent at Berens Island and barren Cape Beale where her father was lighthouse keeper. One of the first pupils in Craigflower School, she and her brother, Gus made the daily trip by boat, being rowed to the mainland by their father.

For more than 60 years, Mrs. Morrison lived in the Alberni Valley where many of the oldtimers will remember her for her round-the-clock help with their problems. Should the arrival of a new baby be imminent or someone be sick, Mrs. Morrison was sure to be there.

She and her sister are probably the only two living women who have travelled the length of the Alberni Inlet into the Barkley Sound by Indian canoe.

Mrs. Morrison also worked as a mill worker when the province's first paper mill was in operation on the Somass River in the Alberni.

Today, this woman whose history is bound up with Vancouver Island, was guest of honor at a family luncheon in the Princess Mary restaurant.

With her for her birthday were her sister, also her two children, Tom E. Morrison, Victoria, and Mrs. J. Davis Moore, Malahat.

Assisting in sorting many attractive articles that will be on sale Saturday at a bazaar and tea arranged by the Ladies' Auxiliary, Sons of Scotland Benevolent Association, in K of P. Hall, from 2 to 4:30 p.m., are Anna Wilson, left, and the auxiliary president, Doris Weir. There will be a door prize.

Party Brings Many Gifts to Home

More than 150 guests who crowded the Protestant Orphan's Home on Thursday afternoon assured success for the annual Pound Party, sponsored by the Ladies' Committee.

Money donations of $50 were made, and gift of fruit, sugar, home-made preserves, canned goods and knitted articles were received.

Acting as hostesses were Mrs. W. Luney, past president; Mrs. N. Harwood, vice-president, and Mrs. A. Barner, matron of the Home.

Following tea, served in the dining room, the children entertained by singing spiritual songs under direction of Rev. Cecil Barner. Accompanist was Mrs. Harwood.

Staff members took guests on a tour of the Home.

Money donations were taken by Mrs. S. J. Clark and Mrs. J. C. Scott; pound donations by Mrs. W. Dinsmore and Mrs. M. H. French.

Mrs. A. Winiowski was tea convener. Pouring tea were Mrs. J. W. Collins and Mrs. D. Cuthbert, assisted by Mrs. W. H. Hughes, Mrs. F. Lesley, Mrs. G. Bergstrom, Mrs. P. Mackereth, Mrs. A. H. Adams, Mrs. T. McGimpsey, Mrs. W. R. Clarke and Mrs. F. Shandley.

First Step on Master Plan Wins Backing at Courtenay

COURTENAY—City council has approved the first step toward a long-range master plan for civic development.

A major rezoning bylaw developed after two years of work by planners was given first and second readings this week.

Ratepayers will have an opportunity to air their opinions on the new zoning at a public hearing at 8 p.m. Oct. 17 in City Hall before final readings and adoption by council.

The bylaw divides the city into 13 zones and provides 40 different classes of land use. New regulations for signs, mandatory off-street parking for commercial uses and provision against blind intersections in residential areas also are included.

A survey and report by regional planners from Victoria provided the basis for the new plan. The city's advisory planning commission shaped the planners' recommendations with several amendments into the proposed bylaw.

Various combinations of land use will be allowed in each of the 13 zones. Patterns of use will vary from entirely residential to apartment, tourist, light and heavy industry and commercial areas.

Billboards and signs of any kind on utility poles will be forbidden. Size of all other types of signs will be limited.

A maximum penalty of $200 has been set and $20 for each week a bylaw infraction continues to exist.

COURTENAY—First three phases of the 1962 United Appeal campaign have been launched with an emphasis on increasing payroll deductions.

Mayor W. C. Moore, United Appeal president, said about 30 per cent of past campaigns has been coming from employee canvasses.

This year's new objective of $26,000 will mean trying to raise payroll deductions to 45 or 50 per cent, he said.

Business district canvassers met Thursday for briefing and start of the appeal in Courtenay and Comox.

M. S. Wharram, campaign chairman, told the businessmen a contribution from every job holder, women and men, was essential for United Appeal's 17 agencies to help the unfortunate and support medical research.

COURTENAY—B.C. Knights of Pythias will hold their 1963 convention in Courtenay next May.

Dave Corrigan of the Courtenay lodge has advised the city 300 delegates will attend, for three days beginning May 15.

The 1963 convention of the B.C. Recreation Association also will be held in Courtenay in May.

ALERT BAY—Police have identified a man swept to his death Wednesday by a mud and rock slide near here as John Gilbert Moreley, 37, of Duncan.

Moreley's body has not been found since the accident at a logging camp. He and two other workers were operating a log-loading machine on a steep mountain-side when the slide started 1,500 feet above them.

The others were able to reach safety but Moreley apparently did not hear their shouts and was carried away with the loader.

Courtenay Studies Plan To Close Road

COURTENAY—A proposal to close off one block of Cumberland Road highway along the Court House Square will be studied by the Advisory Planning Commission.

Alderman A. H. Strachan said the closure would eliminate the hazard of two five-way intersections where Cumberland Road crosses Fitzgerald and England Avenues.

He said the right of way could be converted to a boulevard strip and parking for as many as 80 cars.

Cumberland Road is a secondary highway but the department of highways district engineer was enthusiastic about the project, Alderman Strachan said.

Highway traffic would be diverted along Eighth Street and Fitzgerald Avenue to Fifth Street to the downtown area.

Logging Firms Build Up Inventories

sey said today he is looking for volunteers to take part in the search to start at the police office in Sooke at 9 a.m.

Volunteers must be experienced woodsmen, he said.

Mr. Holland never returned from a walk while visiting his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Don Roberts of Grant Road.

Police on the following day launched an extensive search, which continued throughout the week, but found no trace of the man.

It is feared that Mr. Holland may have suffered a heart attack while walking in the woods near Grant Road.

GANGES—Salt Spring Island community tag day in aid of Canadian Institute for the Blind, will be held Saturday.

The tag day is being organized by Mrs. V. C. Best and Mrs. Mary Fellows for the IODE, assisted by other Salt Spring Island groups.

GANGES—An appeal for discarded nylon stockings to provide a living for widowed mothers in Korea, was made to ladies of Ganges United Church by the pastor, Dr. Norah Hughes.

The United Church shipped 4½ tons of nylons to Korea last year, said Dr. Hughes.

Korean women mend best of the stockings and sell them again as hosiery; others are taken apart and the thread re-woven in various forms. Heels and toes are used as padding in many articles; nothing is wasted, said Dr. Hughes.

DUNCAN—Production in the logging industry continues at an unusually high level, according to National Employment Service manager, R. S. Robinson.

He explained that employers are continuing to build up inventories to offset loss of production usually caused by snowfall at the higher levels as the season progresses.

Turnover of labor is unusually low in the logging industry and the shortage of skilled loggers is expected to continue.

Mr. Robinson added that sawmills are operating at a high level of production.

LOWEST LEVEL

Mr. Robinson said the number of unemployed males registered at the Duncan office at the end of September was the lowest for the month since 1954.

There were only 265 unplaced applicants registered compared to 453 last month. The 1954 figure was 235. One of the lowest figures ever registered was in May, 1957, when only 160 unplaced applicants were registered.

A total of 175 women are registered at the office including 81 clerical workers, stenographers and bookkeepers, 41 salesclerks and 41 service workers. The demand for experienced and well-qualified clerical workers increased considerably and the NES experienced considerable difficulty in filling orders.

FLOWERS FAVORED IN SOOKE

Women in Sooke are more interested in flower-arranging than dressmaking, judging by enrollment in night school classes.

Twenty persons are registered in the flower-arranging course compared with 15 in dressmaking. There must be at least 15 persons in a class before a course will be given.

Since this is the first year for night school classes in the district, a total of 30 are offered to discover where public interest lies.

SOLUTION WEDNESDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Groucho Marx has just handed his publishers a manuscript of his new book, "Memoirs of a Manly Lover." The 1963 publication of his recollections of romance is eagerly awaited by the Boston book censors. "Is the book actually finished?" I quizzed Groucho.

"No," Groucho said. "I write it spasmodically. I have a small portable electric Spasmotic I work on. I can type 122 mistakes a minute."

"Are you writing it for Bernard Geis Associates?" I asked.

"Yes—I mean No! I'm writing it for posterity but I probably won't be around then," Groucho then deviated for a moment, you'll pardon the expression.

"I saw the fight," he said. "Sonny Liston swings so hard, he can hurt a guy when he misses him. He should only fight in the summer—we wouldn't need air-conditioning. I hear Kennedy's going to send him to fight Cuba. But isn't it wonderful about Patterson—having a town named for him in New Jersey?"

The theme of Groucho's book is stated in one of the chapter headings: "L'Amour the Merrier."

Johnny Carson got roasted by the Friars in connection with starting "Tonight." Red Buttons warned him, "You'll be the most hated man in six months."

Alan Gale called his spot "the electric chair." Phil Foster confided "He's nothin'." and Roastmaster Jack E. Leonard implied that Carson couldn't be much, because look at the dais: "Joe E. Lewis, America's oldest drunk... Tony Bennett, who made a fortune lip-sin'... Rudy Vallee, who quit singing many years ago when he got his tongue caught in his megaphone. Keep an eye on Johnny's suave announcer Ed McMahon who dumfounded Roastmaster Leonard by saying, 'I thought while I was on, you'd have one of your rare moments of courtesy.'"

THE MIDNIGHT EARL... Jane Morgan'll make news again—she and Laurence Stith decided on a real-son Mexican divorce... Eddie Fisher, living in a friend's town house for his smash Winter Garden engagement, soon gets a new pet. A Yorkshire terrier, a gift from Switzerland, from lonely Liz Taylor. She phoned she was sending it... Isn't Ann-Margaret ("Ann-Margarine") to Hollywood pals coming in to hear and cheer him? ... Like we told you months ago, Jackie Gleason's an Oscar bet for "Gigot!"

Ariane Francis is taking singing lessons (for a B'way musical?) ... Connie Francis is sinking her loot in N.J. real estate.

EARL'S PEARLS: Children certainly grow fast. Before you know it, the little girl in the frilly dress is a woman in treader pants.

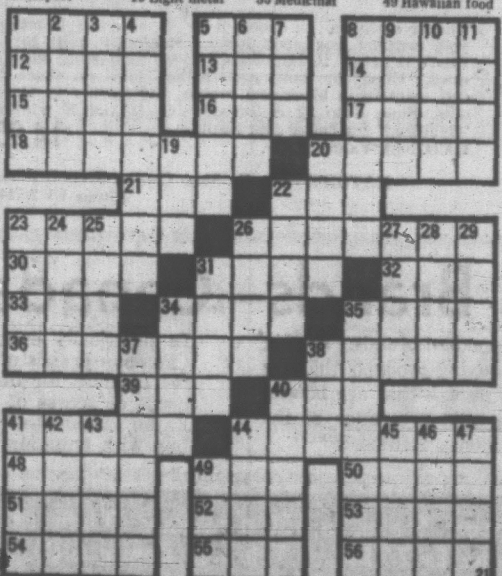

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: The modern couple, notes Kitty Kallen, is one that says, "It was too nice to stay home watching TV, so we went out to a movie."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Description of a reducing pill: A bore who keeps talking about his diet. That's earl brother.

TRIGGER-HAPPY HUNTERS INVADE WATERSHED AREA

Mayor R. B. Wilson today appealed to hunters to stop invading Greater Victoria watershed property.

He made the appeal after learning so-called "sportsmen" had virtually invaded the watershed to hunt deer and some even dynamited a water board gate to get their vehicle into the Goldstream area.

A report from water board officials said publicly about a decision to authorize 100 hunters to enter the watershed next month to thin out deer had backfired.

Instead of waiting for appearance of an advertisement announcing opening of the list for hunters wishing to apply, a large number had "invaded" the west end of the watershed causing a series of minor property damage as well as illegally entering the watershed.

Mayor Wilson emphasized that hunters must wait for the advertisement, apply for the privilege and be tested by the metropolitan health board officials before they can be allowed to enter the watershed.

NAVAL ATTACHE

Reds Expel American As Spy

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government today accused Cmdr. Raymond D. Smith, the assistant U.S. naval attaché at the embassy here, of espionage. He was ordered to leave the country immediately.

The Soviet foreign ministry ordered Smith's expulsion in a note handed to U.S. consul James R. McSweeney this morning.

The Soviet note said Smith had "carried out espionage through observation of military objects."

"He had detailed maps and notes and special apparatus the nature of which left no doubt he was engaged in espionage," the note said.

The Soviet news agency Tass said:

"On Oct. 2 competent Soviet organs detained in Leningrad an unknown person who conducted careful observations of a military object."

"The detained person was found today to be the assistant U.S. naval attaché, Raymond Smith. He had with him detailed maps, notes and special apparatus, which prove without doubt that Smith was engaged in spying."

The U.S. consul said he had rejected the protest as well as the charges that Smith was engaged in espionage, "but as usual in these cases we are complying with the ministry's wishes."

(It was assumed Smith's expulsion was ordered in retaliation for the expulsion from the United States this week of two members of the Soviet delegation to the United Nations accused of buying defence secrets from a U.S. sailor.)

U.S. Protests 'Roughing Up'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States accused Russia today of forcibly detaining and "roughing up" its assistant naval attaché in Moscow before ordering him out of the country on a charge of espionage.

The state department said Cmdr. Raymond D. Smith will leave Moscow Monday, complying with Soviet demands.

The U.S., however, "rejected Soviet allegations of improper behavior by Cmdr. Smith," the state department declared.

It added that the U.S. embassy had also "strongly protested to the ministry of defence this gross violation of diplomatic immunity."

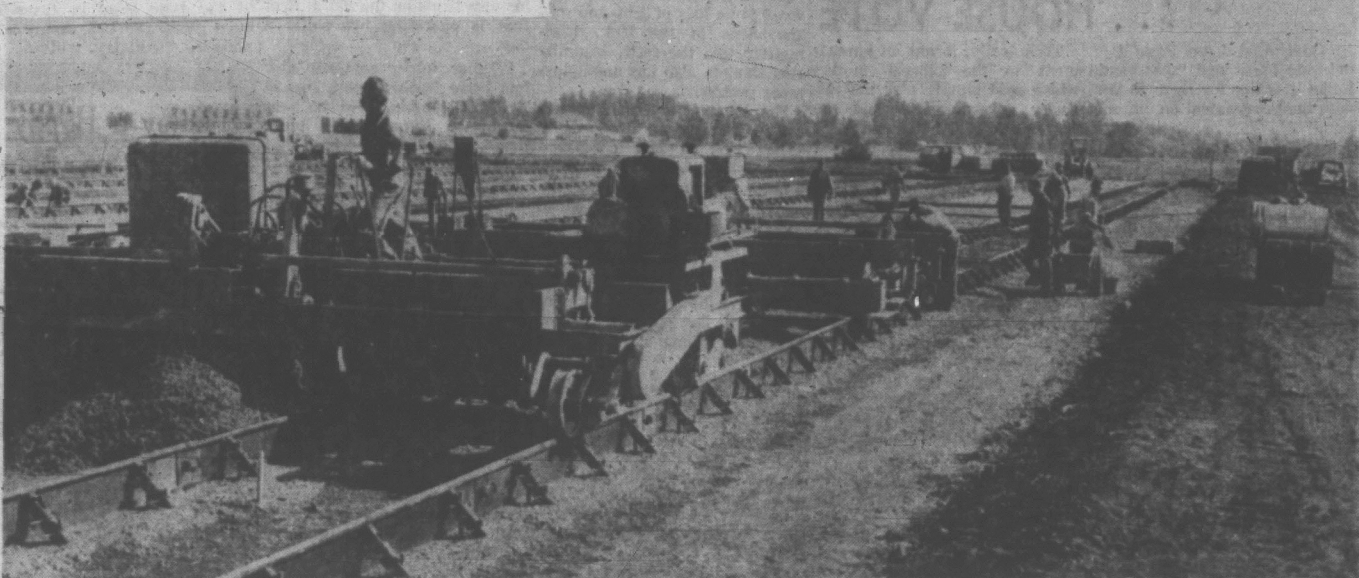

Press Officer Lincoln White said the state department meant "both the detention and the roughing up of White."

Giants Hold 1-0 Lead Starting Fifth Inning

SAN FRANCISCO—San Francisco Giants jumped into an early lead against New York Yankees today as they attempted to square the World Series baseball classic at Candlestick Park.

Beaten 6-2 by the American League champions in Thursday's opening game of the best-of-seven series, the Giants were in front 1-0 after four innings in today's second game.

Chuck Hiller sent the National Leagueers ahead in the first inning as he doubled off Yankee pitcher Ralph Terry and came around to score. Hiller's blow was the only hit off the right-hander in the first four innings.

SOCREDS AND TORIES TOGETHER

Crucial House Vote Goes As Predicted

Coalition That's Not Coalition

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—After Thursday night's marriage of political convenience, in which Social Credit became the unblinking bride of the Conservative government, the question on most lips today is "How long can it last?"

For the moment, the principals are in a honeymoon mood. They will be exchanging fighting words, to be sure, as they did throughout the courtship. But it appears no divorce will be sought for a matter of months, at least.

In its desperate desire to avoid an election this winter, Social Credit entered the informal coalition with no ifs, ands or buts.

UNQUALIFIED

The party's members voted simple and unqualified support of the government, in joining with the Conservatives to reject Liberal-New Democratic party motions of non-confidence.

The meaning of this to observers here is that the Diefenbaker government is almost certain to retain power until the spring, possibly longer.

The votes ended all speculation here of the possibility of an election before Christmas.

Guesses about just when the next election might come range from March to as late as September, with preference given to the spring months. The Social Credit excuse for

OTTAWA (CP)—The Progressive Conservative government, with a "clutch" assist from the pivotal Social Credit contingent, has survived its first real test in Parliament's "House of minorities."

Two back-to-back motions of non-confidence, one sponsored by the Liberals and the other by the New Democratic Party, were voted down Thursday night in a Commons chamber packed with spectators and electric with tension.

On both the count was 140 to 118. Conservatives and Social Credit lined up against the Liberals and NDP.

The votes came at the end of the fourth day of debate on the speech from the throne, read at last Thursday's opening of Parliament as an outline of the minority government's legislative intentions.

Five Social Credit MPs—including Deputy Leader Real Caouette—were the only members not in their seats when the crucial moment arrived.

IS NDP LABEL A CASE OF INITIAL RUDENESS?

OTTAWA (CP)—Tom Barnett (NDP—Comox-Alberni) said in the Commons today that members of his group should be referred to in House debates as "New Democrats" or "members of the New Democratic Party"—not by the initials NDP.

Mr. Barnett said the NDP was being used by members speaking in the Commons although they did not call members of the Progressive Conservative and Social Credit parties PCs and SCs. He asked for parliamentary courtesy to apply.

The remaining 25 Social Credit MPs joined with the 115 Conservatives on each vote, opposing 100 Liberals and 18 NDP members.

It was the third time in three days that the government—which had its former massive majority wiped out in the June 18 federal election—had survived a non-confidence vote.

Tuesday night a Social Credit motion was defeated 233 to 30—only Social Credit supported that one, which was worded to make other opposition backing unlikely.

Following Thursday night's decision, Liberal Leader Pearson said his party will have to decide between now and next Tuesday whether to offer a further non-confidence motion during the throne speech debate.

Mr. Pearson said Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson had admitted framing the Social Credit amendment in such a way that the other parties could

BUYER WITH READY CASH GETS BARGAIN

VANCOUVER (CP)—Trudy Burns, 28, testified Thursday that she made $250 in four days by prostitution in order to take advantage of an early spring sale of narcotics.

She and companion Patricia Rafter, 25, pleaded not guilty to possessing narcotics for the purpose of trafficking.

Miss Burns said the $250 was her half of the money needed to buy 100 capsules of heroin. The other woman put up the other half.

Mrs. Rafter testified that since an RCMP crackdown, the price had fluctuated between $5 and $16 a capsule. She said she made a practice of buying her supplies when the prices were low.

The trial continues.

Kent Seeks Court Order To Bar Sons

AGASSIZ (CP)—Kent municipality planned to make application in British Columbia Supreme Court today for an order that would keep Sons of Freedom Doukhobors outside its boundaries.

The move followed a council meeting in this Fraser Valley community, where the trekking Doukhobors say they are determined to go.

Council asks the court to "make operative" an emergency bylaw that would stop the Sons from coming. Passed two weeks ago as an emergency stop, the bylaw says the fanatic Doukhobors' uncertain nature makes their arrival a hazard.

Police said they would not enforce the bylaw and Attorney-General Robert Bonner has called it "Mississippi-type legislation," that discriminates against a minority because of reputation.

De Gaulle Faces Test As French Poll Forced

CP from Reuters-AP

PARIS — An all-out election battle between President de Gaulle and France's traditional parties shaped up today after the collapse of the government on an anti-de Gaulle censure vote early this morning.

The government of Premier Georges Pompidou toppled after 280 of the 480 National Assembly deputies censured the government with the charge that de Gaulle is violating the constitution in his plan to seek approval by referendum for his proposal to elect future presidents by popular vote.

Pompidou was expected to hand his resignation to de Gaulle later today following the vote which exceeded by 39 the number needed to fell the first legislature of the four-year-old Fifth Republic.

The ballot came at the end of a bitter 12-hour debate on de Gaulle's Oct. 28 referendum. It began Thursday two hours after de Gaulle gave a clear warning to the French people he would retire if they voted against his proposal in the referendum.

At the moment, de Gaulle's proposal seems likely to win a majority in the referendum. The general is popular and trusted, and many voters will probably follow his advice.

But victory for de Gaulle in the referendum can start a constitutional crisis. The opposition is prepared to take the case to the constitutional council whose members, according to reliable reports, feel amendment by referendum is unconstitutional.

WORD IS FINAL

The council is a sort of supreme court to rule on constitutional questions, and the constitution says the council's decision on such matters is final.

Furthermore, de Gaulle's popularity may not rub off on Gaullist candidates for parliament. If, as now seems probable, the middle-road parties gang up on the Gaullists in the election, the president could face an anti-Gaullist assembly later in the year.

A decree dissolving the National Assembly is expected to be published Saturday with the government remaining in a caretaker capacity until after the election expected to take place early next month.

Normally de Gaulle's seven-year term would end in early 1965.

The law says the election must take place between 20 and 40 days after the assembly is dissolved.

All political groups in the assembly except de Gaulle's own Union for the New Republic

Socred Ejected By Speaker

OTTAWA (CP)—Social Credit MP Bernard Dumont, member for Bellechasse, was ejected from the Commons today when he refused to yield the floor to Speaker Marcel Lambert.

The rare step, which electrified the Commons as today's sitting began, was the harshest yet taken by Mr. Lambert—an Edmonton lawyer—in his continuing attempts to curb what he has labelled as breaches of the rules by the opposition and especially the 30-member Social Credit group.

Dumont was "named" by the Speaker—in effect, admonished—and ordered to leave the chamber.

The clash occurred when Mr. Dumont, an insurance manager, rose as soon as the sitting began and said—speaking in French—that he had a question of privilege.

But immediately he began a speech dealing with what he said was low farm income in Quebec and the Atlantic provinces.

The Speaker rose—under the rules, the cue for an MP to sit down—and called for order, but Mr. Dumont stayed on his feet, talking steadily.

U.K. Press Predicts 'Ungovernable' House

LONDON (AP)—The French political crisis dominated British newspaper headlines today. "De Gaulle loses the battle," "Pompidou is thrown out," "The Evening News headlines."

"The overthrow of the government means that the president is now engaged in a head-on clash with almost every major political party in France," The Evening Standard says.

"The clash has been brought about both by the nature of the suggested constitutional reform and de Gaulle's manner of going about it," writes correspondent Sam White.

"The assembly has often in the past shown its hostility to de Gaulle, but though it has huffed and puffed it has never yet dared to actually blow the government down."

"This time, with its mandate running for only another six months, the assembly decided that it had to fight the issue to its logical conclusion."

"The Evening News predicted that the forthcoming general election will result in 'the near certainty that de Gaulle will have to deal with an ungovernable parliament in the future.'"

INEFFECTIVE WITH WORLD SHIP SURPLUS

(See Page 5)

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain will continue to resist United States pressure aimed at further restrictions on British ships trading with Cuba, British officials said today.

Britain opposes further attempts to control shipping trade with Cuba because it would be ineffective, the officials said.

At present there is a surplus of world shipping capacity and even if Britain and other European NATO members did introduce measures to bar their ships from Cuba other Eastern-bloc countries would step in making the Western action ineffective, the officials claimed. The diplomatic correspondent of The Times says the government does not consider that a partial peacetime blockade would be justifiable in law and does not think it would achieve anything worth while.

"Lord Home, the foreign secretary, made the position clear in his recent discussions in the United States with President Kennedy and Mr. Rusk, the secretary of state," The Times says.

"Besides a boycott would, if anything, strengthen Castro's position in Cuba and erode any remaining doubts he may have about submitting to Russian domination."

The Conservative Yorkshire Post says a "major clash" is looming between Britain and the U.S. over trade with Cuba, with the possibility of British ships being blacklisted at U.S. ports.

"A total blockade might well be regarded by Cuba—and she would undoubtedly have the support of the Soviet bloc—as an act of war."

"Britain would regard a total blockade as contrary to all those principles of the freedom of the seas on which a maritime nation like Britain depends for her livelihood."

MacPowell Given Permission To Charge IWA

The B.C. Labor Relations Board said today it has granted permission to MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. to prosecute an International Woodworkers of America leader and union members who took part in a work stoppage at Port Alberni last month.

The board order gives the company permission to prosecute Local 185 president Walter Allan, the local itself and the boom men involved for taking part in an illegal walk-out.

A MacMillan, Bloedel spokesman said the company will now consider the procedure to be used in prosecution and added that while the company could have pressed a suit for damages against the union and men it will prosecute instead and seek a conviction "as a matter of record."

The board must still consider an IWA counter-application charging the company with an illegal lockout to decide whether or not it was "frivolous" under the Labor Act.

EAT THOSE WORDS

Fast Action On Home Bids 'Money-Saver'

By JOHN MIKA

Ald. Michael Griffin, who called intermunicipal committee members "blockheads," may have to eat his words.

Mayor R. B. Wilson and Reeve A. C. Wurtelle today defended the committee's action in calling for tenders for construction of a new juvenile detention home.

A non-member, Ald. Griffin had issued a press statement vehemently attacking the committee's decision and accusing it of moving too quickly because, he claimed, the financing had not been arranged. He suggested contractors should not bid on the project because it was "nebulous."

PROPER MOVE

Mayor Wilson, chairman of intermunicipal committee, told city finance committee that the tender call was both proper and necessary.

He pointed out that last spring the four municipalities had agreed on the joint sharing of costs and that the city had undertaken to pay 43.25 per cent of the estimated $100,000 project.

A tender call was necessary now in order to obtain federal financial assistance—which could reduce the overall cost—under the winter-works program.

"I think we acted quite properly," he told committee. "There had been a formal agreement by all four municipalities on financing and our share is 43.25 per cent."

IT'S URGENT

"Another month's delay by intermunicipal committee could have meant we would not get the building up as a winter work project. This is an urgent matter and should be proceeded with quickly."

He said with winter work aid and payment to the city of $15,000 for the site behind the health and welfare building, the city's actual cash outlay might be held to about $30,000.

City finance committee, which had been asked by council to choose the best method of raising the city share, recommended borrowing if necessary to undertake the project this December.

OVERLOOKED

Meanwhile, Esquimalt Reeve Wurtelle told The Times that Ald. Griffin apparently had overlooked decisions by the four municipalities last May to share the cost of the detention home on an agreed joint basis.

He said Esquimalt council had approved its 9.193 per cent share and had agreed to provide half the amount this year.

Call for More Canvassers Sounded By United Appeal

The United Appeal total crept past the $108,850 mark today—30.2 per cent of the $360,000 which is needed to provide operating funds for the 23 health, welfare and recreation agencies in Victoria.

Although the campaign is $29,000 ahead-of last year's pace, "campaign people would be happier if the money was coming in faster, as we started earlier this year," one official told The Times.

SURVEY SHOWS 'COST' OF AUSTERITY

Meats Spearhead Price Advance

By DESMOND BILL

The federal government's austerity program has increased the price of consumer goods from soup to nuts.

A Times survey shows this is literally true.

Imported soup which cost $1.20 before devaluation and the surcharge now costs $1.34, according to federal customs inspectors.

And nuts have gone up about 15 per cent as a result of the surcharge and devaluation.

But the most startling increase since June 24, when the austerity program was introduced, has been the price of meats. A survey of food markets in Victoria show prices of some cuts have gone up as much as one-third.

BIGGER U.S. DEMAND

It appears the increase in beef prices is principally caused by devaluation which has made Canadian beef available at attractive prices to U.S. buyers. The resulting increased U.S. demand has caused a general price increase in prairie stockyards.

Porterhouse steak, which sold for 98 cents a pound in late June, was being retailed in Victoria at $1.28 a pound on Thursday.

SALES STEADY

Despite the increases there has been no slackening in meat sales, according to meat store managers.

One manager said a few housewives complained about the high prices at first, "but now they don't even remember what the price used to be."

The full effect of the price increase caused by austerity has still not been felt in city stores. Many merchants are still operating on stocks bought before June 24.

20% INCREASE

But new merchandise now arriving for pre-Christmas sale is generally going on sale at higher prices. An example is cameras which have generally advanced about 20 per cent in retail price.

City businessmen are concerned at the harm that austerity may do to their tourist business next year. Unless the surcharge is removed there are many items which U.S. tourists will be able to buy at home cheaper than they can here, say the merchants.

Devaluation eventually will affect even Canadian-made goods, according to retailers. They say that Canadian goods which use imported parts will increase in price to absorb the added cost of these components.

In an attempt to offset increases, some large department stores are taking a reduced mark-up on some lines. Generally, however, all increases appear to have been passed on to consumers.

City Yards To Get $5 Million

More than $7,000,000 in federal subsidies for west coast shipyards has been approved by the Canadian Maritime Commission, it was announced in Ottawa today.

Of this total, almost $5,000,000 will come to Victoria, including $4,200,000 for B.C. Toll Highways and Bridges Authority ferries covering the Mv Victoria and two new ferries being built at Victoria Machinery Depot Ltd.

The remaining subsidy funds coming to Victoria, about $500,000, will go to Yarrows Ltd. for two large barges built for Island Tug and Barge Ltd. as well as some smaller barges.

PARTIAL PAYMENT

Harold Husband, president of VMD, said today that the federal government had already made partial payment of ferry subsidies which VMD had turned over to the provincial government.

Also qualifying is a third B.C. government ferry being built by Burrard Drydock Co. Ltd. in Vancouver as well as other Vancouver shipbuilding projects.

The subsidy, announced by the federal government in May of 1961, amounts to 40 per cent of the cost of approved projects.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner, acting premier, said he was "delighted" to hear the subsidy payments had been approved.

"We're always glad to receive money from Ottawa," he declared.

Shoulder Shrug Brings Comment From Magistrate

A man who shrugged his shoulders over an accident that caused $900 damage, received a scolding from Magistrate J. A. Byers in Saanich police court Thursday.

Alejandro Marcota of Ganges, fined $15 for failing to yield the right of way, made the gesture when asked by the magistrate if he had anything to say.

"You shrug your shoulders over an accident that caused $900 damage... It's people like you who put up the cost of motor insurance... you don't look where you're going," said the magistrate.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Vivian G. Robert, 2670 Queenswood Drive, $35 for careless driving.

Frank T. Rhode, 225 Skinner Street, $20 for failing to give right-of-way to pedestrian.

Arthur Scammell, Courtenay, $25 for pulling away from a curb when it was unsafe.

Giants Tie Series With 2-0 Victory

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—San Francisco's Jack Sanford beat New York Yankees 2-0 with a brilliant three-hitter today as the Giants tied the World Series at 1-1. Chuck Hiller's double led to the first run in the first inning and Willie McCovey blasted a home run in the seventh.

Sanford was given a stirring battle by the Yankees' Ralph Terry for seven innings. Both are righthanders. In the opener Thursday lefthander Whitey Ford of the Yankees won 6-2, beating southpaw Billy O'Dell.

Saturday will be an off day for travel. The teams will move to New York for the third game Sunday, the fourth Monday, and the fifth Tuesday. The sixth and seventh games, if necessary, will be played in San Francisco, Thursday and Friday.

Hiller started the first inning with a double to the right field corner. Felipe Alou's sacrifice and brother Matty Alou's ground out to second brought Hiller in.

FOUR-BAGGER
Bearing down, Terry, a 23-game winner, held the Giants scoreless and with just one more hit until the seventh. Then McCovey, who subbed at first for slumping Orlando Cepeda, hit a tremendous home run high over the right field fence to start the Giants' seventh.

Following McCovey's homer, Tom Haller's single and an error by shortstop Tony Kubek on Jim Davenport's grounder gave the Giants two on and none out but Terry dug out of that hole.

Jose Pagan sacrificed to move up the runners, then Sanford missed on a squeeze bunt attempt and Hiller was caught in a run-down. Sanford singled to right but Davenport was cut down at the plate on Roger Maris' fine throw to catcher Yogi Berra.

STRUCK OUT SIX
Sanford, who struck out six, didn't yield a hit until there was one out in the fourth. Tom Tresh was credited with a single on a pop bunt in back of the mound when Sanford interfered with shortstop Jose Pagan. Tresh stole second but died there.

Clete Boyer, whose homer was the deciding run Thursday, singled sharply to left for the second hit with two out in the fifth. He went no further as Pagan threw out Terry.

Lefthander Bud Daley pitched the eighth after Terry went out for pinch-hitter Johnny Blanchard.

Crowd Small At Sandown
One of the smallest crowds of the season braved chilly and showery weather to watch Tom's Allie, three-year-old chestnut colt racing out of the l'Anco stable, take the first race at Sandown today.

Piloted by Charlie Ulrich, he ran the six furlongs over a slow track in 1:17.1 and paid $7.60, $3.10 and $2.70.

Flyworth placed to pay $2.60 and $2.60. Show horse was Miss Joketa, paying $2.90. The onetwo paid $7.90.

WORD IS FINAL
The council is a sort of supreme court to rule on constitutional questions, and the constitution says the council's decision on such matters is final. Furthermore, de Gaulle's proposal seems likely to win a majority in the referendum.

The general is popular and trusted, and many voters will probably follow his advice. But victory for de Gaulle in the referendum can start a constitutional crisis. The opposition is prepared to take the case to the constitutional council whose members, according to reliable reports, feel amendment by referendum is unconstitutional.

OTTAWA—After Thursday night's marriage of political convenience, in which Social Credit became the unblinking bride of the Conservative government, the question on most lips today is "How long can it last?"

On both the count was 140 to 118, Conservatives and Social Credit lining up against the Liberals and NDP.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The condition of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, who is suffering from an infectious lung condition, deteriorated somewhat today, according to medical reports from Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center.

Strike Action
OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister Starr said today he is in continuing contact with the Canadian Pacific Railway Company in connection with the threatened strike of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, scheduled for Oct. 29.

UNQUALIFIED
The party's members voted simple and unqualified support of the government, in joining with the Conservatives to reject Liberal-New Democratic party motions of non-confidence.

The meaning of this to observers here is that the Diefenbaker government is almost certain to retain power until spring, possibly longer.

The votes ended all speculation here of the possibility of an election before Christmas.

Guesses about just when the next election might come range from March to as late as September, with preference given to the spring months.

De Gaulle Faces Big Test

(CP from Reuters-AP)
PARIS—An all-out election battle between President de Gaulle and France's traditional parties shaped up today after the collapse of the government on an anti-de Gaulle censure vote early this morning.

The government of Premier Georges Pompidou toppled after 280 of the 480 National Assembly deputies censured the government with the charge that de Gaulle is violating the constitution in his plan to seek approval by referendum for his proposal to elect future presidents by popular vote.

Pompidou was expected to hand his resignation to de Gaulle later today following the vote which exceeded by 39 the number needed to fell the first legislature of the four-year-old Fifth Republic.

The ballot came at the end of a bitter 12-hour debate on de Gaulle's Oct. 28 referendum. It began Thursday two hours after de Gaulle gave a clear warning to the French people he would retire if they voted against his proposal in the referendum.

At the moment, de Gaulle's proposal seems likely to win a majority in the referendum. The general is popular and trusted, and many voters will probably follow his advice.

But victory for de Gaulle in the referendum can start a constitutional crisis. The opposition is prepared to take the case to the constitutional council whose members, according to reliable reports, feel amendment by referendum is unconstitutional.

TRIGGER-HAPPY HUNTERS INVADE WATERSHED AREA

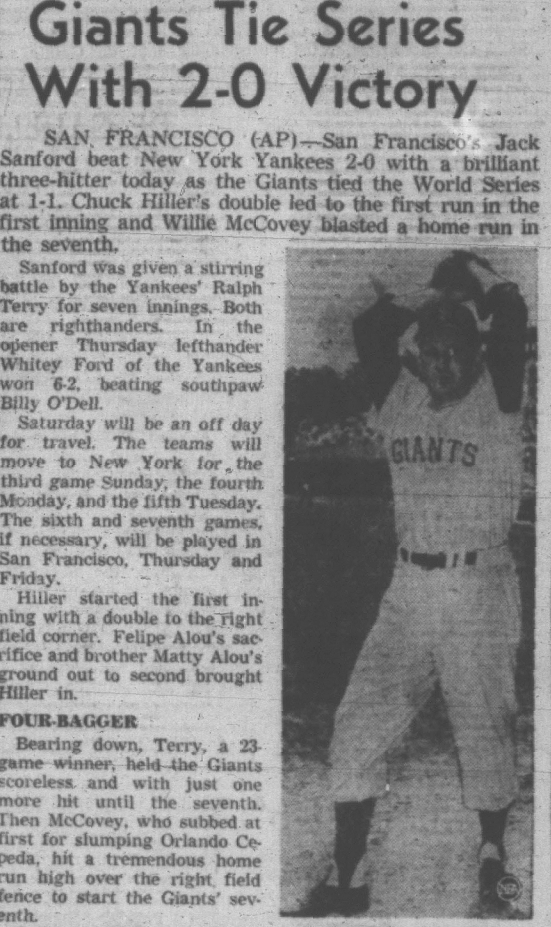

Mayor R. B. Wilson today appealed to hunters to stop invading Greater Victoria watershed property.

He made the appeal after learning so-called "sportsmen" had virtually invaded the watershed to hunt deer and some even dynamited a water board gate to get their vehicle into the Goldstream area.

A report from water-board officials said publicity about a decision to authorize 100 hunters to enter the watershed next month to thin-out deer had backfired.

Instead of waiting for appearance of an advertisement announcing opening of the list for hunters wishing to apply, a large number had "invaded" the west end of the watershed causing a series of minor property damage as well as illegally entering the watershed.

Mayor Wilson emphasized that hunter's must wait for the advertisement, apply for the privilege and be tested by the metropolitan health board officials before they can be allowed to enter the watershed.

Kent Seeks Court Order To Bar Sons

AGASSIZ (CP)—Kent municipality planned to make application in British Columbia Supreme Court today for an order that would keep Sons of Freedom Doukhobors outside its boundaries.

The move followed a council meeting in this Fraser Valley community, where the trekking Doukhobors say they are determined to go.

Council asks the court to make operative an emergency bylaw that would stop the Sons from coming. Passed two weeks ago as an emergency step, the bylaw says the fanatic Doukhobors' uncertain nature makes their arrival a hazard.

Police said they would not enforce the bylaw and Attorney-General Robert Bonner has called it "Mississippi-type legislation," that discriminates against a minority because of reputation.

NAVAL ATTACHE

Reds Expel American As Spy

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government today accused Cmdr. Raymond D. Smith, the assistant U.S. naval attaché at the embassy here, of espionage. He was ordered to leave the country immediately.

The Soviet foreign ministry ordered Smith's expulsion in a note handed to U.S. consul James R. McSweeney this morning.

The Soviet note said Smith had "carried out espionage through observation of military objects."

"He had detailed maps and notes and special apparatus the nature of which left no doubt he was engaged in espionage," the note said.

The Soviet news agency Tass said:

"On Oct. 2 competent Soviet organs detained in Leningrad an unknown person who conducted careful observations of a military object."

"The detained person was found today to be the assistant U.S. naval attaché, Raymond Smith. He had with him detailed maps, notes and special apparatus, which prove without doubt that Smith was engaged in spying."

The U.S. consul said he had rejected the protest as well as the charges that Smith was engaged in espionage, "but as usual in these cases we are complying with the ministry's wishes."

(It was assumed Smith's expulsion was ordered in retaliation for the expulsion from the United States this week of two members of the Soviet delegation to the United Nations accused of buying defence secrets from a U.S. sailor.)

U.S. Protests 'Roughing Up'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States accused Russia today of forcibly detaining and "roughing up" its assistant naval attaché in Moscow by force ordering him out of the country on a charge of espionage.

The state department said Cmdr. Raymond D. Smith will leave Moscow Monday, complying with Soviet demands.

The U.S., however, "rejected Soviet allegations of improper behavior by Cmdr. Smith," the state department declared.

It added that the U.S. embassy had also "strongly protested to the ministry of defence this gross violation of diplomatic immunity."

Press Officer Lincoln White said the state department meant "both the detention and the roughing up of White."

African Homes Raided

PORT ELIZABETH (AP) — South African special branch police swooped on many homes of former leaders of the banned African National Congress in African townships Thursday. Armed with search warrants, police took away letters and documents. No arrests were made. The swoop followed recent unrest, sabotage and arson attempts in eastern Cape Province.

'NORMALIZE RELATIONS'

MOSCOW (Reuters) — A Soviet-Yugoslav communique Thursday called for "normalization" of tense relations between the United States and Cuba.

The communique, which was broadcast by Moscow Radio, climaxed a 10-day visit to Yugoslavia by President Leonid Brezhnev of the Soviet Union.

Britain Resists U.S. Cuban Embargo

(See Page 5) LONDON (Reuters) — Britain will continue to resist United States pressure aimed at further restrictions on British ships trading with Cuba, British officials said today.

Britain opposes further attempts to control shipping trade with Cuba because it would be ineffective, the officials said.

At present there is a surplus of world shipping capacity and even if Britain and other European NATO members did introduce measures to bar their ships from Cuba other Eastern-bloc countries would step in making the Western action ineffective, the officials claimed.

The diplomatic correspondent of The Times says the government does not consider that a partial peacetime blockade would be justifiable in law and does not think it would achieve anything worth while.

"Lord Home, the foreign secretary, made the position clear

LONDON (AP) — The French political crisis dominated British newspaper headlines today. "De Gaulle loses the battle," bannered The Evening Standard. "Pompidou is thrown out," The Evening News headlined.

"The overthrow of the government means that the president is now engaged in a head-on clash with almost every major political party in France," The Evening Standard says.

"The clash has been brought about both by the nature of the suggested constitutional reform and de Gaulle's manner of going about it," writes correspondent Sam White.

"The assembly has often in the past shown its hostility to de Gaulle, but though it has huffed and puffed it has never yet dared to actually blow the government down."

"This time, with its mandate running for only another six months, the assembly decided that it had to fight the issue to its logical conclusion."

The Evening News predicted that the forthcoming general election will result in "the near certainty that de Gaulle will have to deal with an ungovernable parliament in the future."

DE GAULLE

Continued from Page 1 ularity may not rub off on Gaullist candidates for parliament. If, as now seems probable, the middle-road parties gang up on the Gaullists in the election, the president could face an anti-Gaullist assembly later in the year.

A decree dissolving the National Assembly is expected to be published Saturday with the government remaining in a caretaker capacity until after the election expected to take place early next month.

Normally de Gaulle's seven-year term would end in early 1966.

The law says the election must take place between 20 and 40 days after the assembly is dissolved.

All political groups in the assembly except de Gaulle's own Union for the New Republic Party joined in censuring the government over de Gaulle's referendum, which requests authorization to take the presidential vote out of the hands of the present college of national and local public figures.

The issue is expected to be a straight fight between those who support de Gaulle and those who condemn his move as a step towards dictatorship.

Socred Ejected By Speaker

OTTAWA (CP) — Social Credit MP Bernard Dumont, member for Bellechasse, was ejected from the Commons today when he refused to yield the floor to Speaker Marcel Lambert.

The rare step, which electrified the Commons as today's sitting began, was the harshest yet taken by Mr. Lambert — an Edmonton lawyer — in his continuing attempts to curb what he has labelled as breaches of the rules by the opposition and especially the 30-member Social Credit group.

Dumont was "named" by the Speaker — in effect, admonished — and ordered to leave the chamber.

The clash occurred when Mr. Dumont, an insurance manager, rose as soon as the sitting began and said — speaking in French — that he had a question of privilege.

But immediately he began a speech dealing with what he said was low farm income in Quebec and the Atlantic provinces.

The Speaker rose — under the rules, the cue for an MP to sit down — and called for order, but Mr. Dumont stayed on his feet, talking steadily.

BOSTON GIRL ADMITS KILLING BOY FRIEND

BOSTON (AP) — Police said today a pretty young post-graduate student has admitted slaying an electronics engineer whose nude body was found in her luxurious Beacon Hill apartment.

Edward Sherry, lieutenant of detectives, said Miss Suzanne Clift, 21, was booked on a murder charge. Sherry said the girl was to be arraigned today in Boston municipal court.

She is accused of the shooting of Piero Brentani, 27. His body, with a .22-calibre bullet in the back of the head, was found Wednesday in the girl's padlocked bedroom.

Sherry said the girl was calm, almost "stoic" as she told her story. He said she gave no reason for the slaying.

HOUSE VOTE

Continued from Page 1 not vote for it and "that would make it easier for them to vote with the government on our motion."

"I feel sorry for Mr. Thompson that he has to find reasons of that kind to explain his vote," said Mr. Pearson.

Mr. Thompson told a reporter that Social-Credit support of the government was based on the belief that another election this winter is wrong.

SEEKS POSITIVE STEPS

"If Prime Minister Diefenbaker can produce positive legislation," said Mr. Thompson, "then I can see the minority government lasting for some time. If he can't, an election will come a little later."

The government's own motion to approve the contents of the throne speech in general terms is scheduled for next Thursday, eighth and last day of the throne speech debate.

Thursday's debate was highlighted by an assault on the government's economic record by J. W. Pickersgill (L-Bonaville-Twillingate), and an equally fire-breathing reply by Justice Minister Fleming, former finance minister.

Mr. Pickersgill, repeating the Liberal contention that the government hid the facts of Canada's economic situation in the period before the June election, said he had not "the faintest doubt" that the government began preparing the austerity program May 3—the day the dollar was devalued to 92½ cents American.

He also made a charge—subsequently denied by Mr. Fleming—that the day Parliament was dissolved in April, or the following day, the then finance minister instructed government departments to cut $50,000,000 out of spending estimates.

"That is false—that is a false statement," shouted Mr. Fleming to Mr. Pickersgill's assertion that work on the austerity program began in May.

CUTS INTO FLEMING

"The minister can get up and say it is false," retorted Mr. Pickersgill. "He can get up and make a speech in this debate if he dares. He has been, repudiated and cast aside by the prime minister. He has served his purpose and now he is on the rubbish heap."

The Liberal MP rapped the government for not asking this Parliament to approve the emergency economic measures announced six days after the election — there had been no mention of them in the throne speech.

"We just have taxation by television and order-in-council."

A bristling Mr. Fleming, speaking after Mr. Pickersgill, accused the opposition of making "false statements, false accusations and base innuendoes."

The NDP non-confidence motion, presented by David Lewis of York South, accused the government of "having failed to propose a program of economic planning designed to bring about economic growth and full employment."

Lake Hill PFA will hold a meeting in the school auditorium next Wednesday at 8 p.m. Teachers will outline the year's work in each grade.

Technically, it was an amendment to the Liberal motion which said simply that the minority government "lacked the confidence of Parliament."

COALITION

Continued from Page 1 avoiding a winter election is that it would not be in the nation's interest.

This is regarded with skepticism by most observers in Ottawa. They believe there are two more important reasons behind the Socred position:

First, the Socreds want to buy time to improve their organization and rebuild campaigning resources;

Second, they want to give their 30 MPs some parliamentary experience (and, incidentally, a chance to enjoy some of the fruits of elected office, such as $333 per month in MP pay and expenses).

NO SIGNIFICANCE

(The fact that five Socreds, including Deputy Leader Raoul Caouette, were absent for the important vote, was of no special significance, observers said. Two of them were ill, one was at United Nations as an observer and the other two—one of them Caouette—were in Montreal for a TV interview. The Socreds as a group had decided well in advance to support the government, and the absence of the five made no difference to the outcome.)

Thus it seems that when the breakup comes it will be for the same reason as the marriage convenience.

The arrangement serves the convenience of the Diefenbaker government, too, and this has given rise to considerable speculation to the effect that the Tories and Socreds may have made a secret deal to save parliament from dissolution.

COLUMBIA INVOLVED

One suggestion is that the so-called deal involves federal government agreement for Columbia River development on the terms demanded by British Columbia's Social Credit premier W. A. C. Bennett, in return for Social Credit voting support in the House.

No real evidence has come to light to support suggestions of such a deal.

Rather than any behind-the-scenes pact, it is conceded that federal surrender on the Columbia, which appears imminent, and Socred support of the government have logically resulted from the government's precarious minority position.

The prime minister may have felt that by compromising on the Columbia he could attract Socred support and remain in office. If this was his strategy, it has succeeded.

CANADA NOT TO BLAME

Substitutes, Not Imports U.S. Lumberman's Worry

By HAROLD MORRISON WASHINGTON (CP) — The top Canadian spokesman in a multi-million dollar Canada-U.S. tariff battle maintained today the major problem confronting lumber industries on both sides of the border is lumber substitutes and not imports.

Bertram Hoffmeister, president of the British Columbia Forest Industries Council, said the rise in unemployment in lumber manufacturing is evidence of a "common revolution" in both countries — the swing towards plywoods, veneers and other products, both wood and non-wood.

Rejecting the contention of the U.S. industry which blamed heavy imports of Canadian softwood for a loss of jobs and mill shutdowns in the U.S., Hoffmeister told the tariff commission Canada also has unemployment problems.

Employment in Canadian forest industries had dropped by 13,500 jobs in 1961 compared with 1960. Since 1951, lumber employment in Canada had declined by 38 per cent. "More than 10 times the rate for other sectors of forest product manufacture."

"These are gloomy figures," he said as he opened the Canadian case for opposing higher U.S. restrictions, "made even gloomier because we have not been capable of shifting employment from lumber to other forest products at a rate compared to that of the U.S."

Continues TESTIMONY Earlier, C. Corydon Wagner, vice-president of R. D. Merrill Company of Seattle, continued to testify on his allegations that U.S. industry statements that Canadian softwood imports had led to shutdowns of some 200 U.S. mills were largely concocted and unsubstantiated.

He told the commission Thursday he had attempted to pursue these statements and was given a list of 105 sawmills which had gone out of business. To his surprise he found one of his own firms on the list, a firm that is operating two shifts a day.

Wagner, whose company also has large lumber operations in British Columbia, said he sent letters to some of the large firms named as having shut down and of 35 replies, 11 said they are still operating. Of the others which had closed, only two blamed Canadian softwood as the major cause of

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A dome of earth 600 to 800 feet across, longer than two football fields, was thrown 2,000 feet high by a "clean" midsize H-bomb exploded underground in Nevada, July 6.

The Atomic Energy Commission disclosed Thursday that the blast, set off at a depth of 635 feet, dug a crater 1,200 feet in diameter and 320 feet deep.
